It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

DEDICATION.

As an affectionate tribute to my dear grandchildren, Eva, Mary Agnes, Palmer and James Cuyler Chalmers ; and to the youth of the present generation of the descendants of John and Eleanor Reynolds Harris, this volume is inscribed by the author, with the fond hope that it may be in some measure instrumental in leading them to embalm in grateful and loving memory the names and virtues of their pious and noble ancestors, and to bequeath to succeeding generations a spotless name with increasing splendor.

PREFACE.

This modest little volume owes its existence to what was at first a small collection of matter for the information of the writer's immediate family. Friends desired and asked for its publication. Then other matter was obtained, hence the present form and arrangement of the book.

It is not given to the public as a complete record of all the descendants of the Harris Family, but the author's aim and desire were to make it complete, and to this end neither time, labor, nor expense were spared in the collection of material.

It may be, doubtless will be, disappointing to some, but when it is remembered that the families are scattered abroad over this South land from Virginia to Texas, that some have been lost sight of entirely, that in some instances valuable records have been lost or destroyed, while in a few instances little or no taste or interest is felt by the present generation in such matters, it is a source of gratification that so much reliable information has been gathered and arranged in a simple, intelligible and permanent form.

To all who have so kindly aided us in the collection of materials public acknowledgment is herewith most gratefully made.

If this little volume shall in any degree serve to keep green and fragrant the memory of our worthy ancestors, or contribute to the instruction and pleasure of any descendant, or stimulate and encourage a single reader to collect and preserve materials for future history, the author will feel that she has not written in vain.

CHAPTER I.

IN BONDS AND IMPRISONMENT.

Our narrative begins with a marriage solemnized within the gloomy walls of a prison. We sometimes witness marriages in churches, brilliantly lighted, with elaborate decorations, large audiences and the music of the deep toned organ ; sometimes in ancestral halls among friends and relations who load the happy pair with costly presents and congratulations ; sometimes in the humbler walks of life with but few to witness; and occasionally a “ Gretna Green” affair.

But in the case of John Harris and Eleanor Reynolds, our worthy and esteemed ancestors, how very different !

On January 23, 1754, Rev. Thomas Clark, M. D., the beloved pastor of John and Eleanor, at Ballybay congregation, Ireland, was arrested by the civil authorities, at the instigation of his Socinianized Presbyterian enemies, while in the very act of moderating in a call in the congregation of New Bliss.

The charge was disloyalty, because he refused to swear by “ Kissing the Book,” believing it to be unscriptural, and also because he refused to take the “Oath of Abjuration,” inasmuch as it recognized the king as the head of the Church, though he had proven his loyalty by entering the army while a theological student and fighting against the Pretender.

Here is Dr. Clark's own statement of the affair :

"They well knew that the Associate Synod of Scotland, to which I belonged, scrupled at the form of 'Book Kissing,' so in hopes to drive me out of the kingdom they summoned me on the Lord's day to swear the State Oath and Kiss the Book, which I refused to do. They fined me and afterward committed me to jail."

All that night, after his arrest, he was kept under guard in a tavern, and the next day taken to Monaghan Jail.

Many of his people accompanied him, and instead of allowing them to rescue him as they would have done, they sang portions of the 18th Psalm.

" And from above the Lord sent down
And took me from below ;
From many waters he me drew,
Which would me overflow.
He me relieved of my strong foes,
And such as did me hate ;
Because he saw that they for me
Too strong were and too great.

They me prevented in the day
Of my calamity ;
But even then the Lord himself
A stay was unto me.
He to a place where liberty
And room was, hath me brought ;
Because he took delight in me,
He my deliverance wrought.

The Lord will light my candle so
That it shall shine full bright ;
The Lord my God will also make
My darkness to be light.
Who but the Lord is God ? but he
Who is a rock and stay ?
'Tis God that girdeth me with strength,
And perfect makes my way."

Such a man, like Paul, might suffer trouble as an evil doer, even unto bonds, but the word of God could not be bound.

During his imprisonment, like the great apostle to the Gentiles when a prisoner at Rome, Dr. Clark wrote frequent letters of instruction and comfort to his devoted people, who cheered and brightened the gloomy hours of their pastor's prison life by many tokens of love and loyalty. He preached to as many of them as could convene on the Sabbath, poured the baptismal waters upon the brows of thirteen little children, and married at least one couple, John Harris and Eleanor Reynolds. This last tender and beautiful act of devotion to their pastor on the part of two young lovers must have made a deep and lasting impression upon Dr. Clark, for nearly forty years afterwards he refers to it with manifest pleasure in the last document his hand ever wrote.

When the day of trial came his commitment was found to be erroneous and the whole thing a fraud and he was immediately discharged. He was urged to prosecute his persecutors with every assurance of success, but he refused, saying : "Vengence is mine ; I will repay, saith the Lord."

We cannot better close this initial chapter than with a sketch of this eminent and useful man of God.

Rev. Thomas Clark, M. D., was born in Scotland, November 5, 1720.

He graduated at Glasgow University, where he took the degree of Doctor of Medicine; served his country faithfully in the army which fought against the Pretender during the years 1745-46; commenced the study of theology in the Associate Hall, and finished after the schism of 1747 in the Burgher Hall, under Ebenezer Erskine; was licensed April, 1748, by the Presbytery of Glasgow; preached about one year in Scotland and two years in Ireland; was ordained and installed pastor of the congregation of Ballybay, Ireland, July 23, 1751; was imprisoned in Monaghan Jail, January 23d to April, 1754; sailed from Newry, Ireland, for America, May 10 or 16, 1764, and landed at New York, July 28, 1764.

When ready to sail it was found that the mass of his congregation, to the extent of three hundred souls, were ready to accompany him to America.

After landing, a portion of his parishioners went to Abbeville Co., S. C., where some friends had gone before, but the great majority settled with him in Salem, N. Y. His pastoral relation had never been disturbed; his church had simply been transplanted, and he continued on in Salem as the pastor of the eight ruling elders and one hundred and fifty communicants and children that had come with him from Ballybay.

After at least three visits to South Carolina Dr. Clark resigned his charge at Salem, N. Y., and became pastor of Cedar Spring and Long Cane in Abbeville Co., S. C. in 1785, where he died of apoplexy on the 25th of December, 1792. His remains lie in the graveyard at Cedar Spring, Abbeville Co., S. C. The grave is enclosed and covered with a marble slab, bearing the following inscription, which is remarkable for its inaccuracies:

To the Memory of
Rev. Thomas Clark, D. D.
Who was born in Ireland,
Licensed to preach April, 1748,
Labored in Ballybay 16 years,
Emigrated to N. Y., 28th June, 1764,
After laboring there many years came to Abbeville,
S. C., 1786, where he labored as the founder and first pastor of Cedar Spring and Long Cain until his death, December 26, 1792.

There are four errors in the above inscription ; Dr. Clark was an M. D., not a D. D.; he was born in Scotland, not Ireland ; landed in America July 28th, not June, and died December 25th, not 26th.

Dr. Clark's Hebrew Bible is in possession of Rev. John T. Chalmers, of Philadelphia. It consists of two volumes, finely bound in calf, gilt edges, date 1667, consequently is two hundred and twenty-eight years old. Each volume bears the following autograph, in a large, clear hand: "Thomas Clark, of New Perth, in County of Charlotte in New York Colony, owner of this book. Came from Toofeehee in parish of Tannidos in the shire of Angus, in the Kingdom of Scotland, November 5th, 1720."

Just below this inscription in Dr. Clark's own handwriting is the following: "Now the book of William Blackstocks from Leggygowan, near Saintfield, in the county of Down, Ireland; bought May 23d, 1793. And he esteems it an honour, though he's sensible of his unworthiness, to have his name upon the same page with such a great and good man as he who was the former owner of this book."

Thus the volumes were owned consecutively by the two only pastors John and Eleanor Harris ever had.

We close this sketch with the following from Scouller's Manual: "Dr. Clark was a man of blunt manners and of great eccentricities of character, but he was wholly devoted to the cause of Christ and in active labors exceedingly abundant. Wherever he went and in whatever he was engaged, he preached Christ, and the Lord greatly blessed his labors. He had a marvelous ability in adapting himself to circumstances and in turning them to good. While once preaching two dogs met in front of the pulpit and began a fight. After they were ejected and quiet restored, instead of going on with his sermon he asked his people if they knew what these dogs had been doing. He said they had been preaching, and that the subject of their discourse was original sin and the consequences of the fall, and then added some illustrations and applications which they never forgot.

On one occasion, while traveling in Vermont, he fell into company with a stranger with whom he rode a good part of the day. Coming at last to a place where their roads parted, they bade each other farewell, and rode each on his own way for a short distance. The Doctor then stopped and called to his fellow traveler to come back, that they had forgotten something.

When met again at the forks of the road the Doctor said: "Sir, we have been traveling together some hours, enjoying each other's company, and may never meet again. I think it would be well before parting to have a word of prayer."

They dismounted, and kneeling by the roadside, the Doctor made an appropriate and fervent prayer. He then proposed to the other that he should pray. He declined to do so, and being much importuned at last acknowledged that he had never prayed in his life. The Doctor would take no denial. He told him that if he had never prayed hitherto, it was high time to begin. The man, finding that there was no escape, kneeled down and said, "Lord thou knowest that I can't pray at all." "That," said the Doctor, "is an excellent beginning; only persevere and you will do well." This was the means of the conversion of that man, who became an active and useful Christian.

Sabbath morning once found him in the tavern of a Virginia hamlet, where there was no place for religious worship; multitudes were crowding in from the surrounding neighborhood, and he soon learned that a horse race was the order of the day. He mingled with the throng, and just before the event was to come off he raised himself into an elevated position, and with a loud voice called out: "There is danger, my friends, there is danger here; let us ask God to take care of us and bless us"; and immediately commenced a prayer which produced a very general and powerful impression. Seeing his advantage he followed this with a sermon, and when that was over the crowd concluded that it was too late for the race, and dispersed.

His publications were, "Some Letters (4) from the Rev. Thomas Clark, minister of the Gospel, to his congregation at the new meeting house in Ballybay, while prisoner in Monaghan Jail," pp. 52, 1754; "Plain Reasons, a pamphlet in defence of the use of the Psalms in praise;" and a "Pastoral and Farewell Letter to the Associate Congregation in Ballybay by their Former Pastor, pp. 72, printed in Salem in 1811." This letter was unfinished; he was in the very act of writing it when he died.

He had just finished writing, "What I do thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter." Here his pen dropped from his fingers forever, for he was dead.

CHAPTER II.

JOHN HARRIS AND ELEANOR REYNOLDS.

John Harris and Eleanor Reynolds, the ancestors of the "Harris Family," whose history, together with that of their numerous descendants, it is our purpose to briefly recount in the following pages, were parishioners of Rev. Thomas Clark, M. D., and natives of Monaghan County, Ireland.

John Harris was born in 1727 and Eleanor Reynolds in 1726.

They were among the number of faithful followers who accompanied Dr. Clark to prison in January, 1754, for their youngest son, James Harris, the author of a little work on Psalmody, known as the "Plowman's Letter," says in the book: "I heard my mother mention to Dr. Clark that she remembered that on their way to jail they sang the 29th verse of the 18th Psalm (old version):

"By thee through troops of men I break,
And then discomfit all;
And by my God assisting me,
I overleap a wall," which promises were made good to him, for he was honorably acquitted."

John and Eleanor had their marriage solemnized by Dr. Clark, during his incarceration, the latter part of January, 1754.

A few months later they sailed for America, and we may be sure the voyage was a long and tedious one, and very uncomfortable in the sail vessels of that period compared with a six days' trip at the present time in a magnificent palace steamer that almost annihilates time and space.

Their ship was detained in quarantine for a length of time, during which detention their first born saw the light. After landing they settled and remained for several years in Lancaster County, Pa. Then they moved to North Carolina and located temporarily on "Goose Creek" in either Mecklenberg or Union Counties, N. C. This removal probably took place about the year 1767 or 1768.

In a short time they secured a large tract of land, known as "Indian Land," situated partly in Mecklenburg County, N. C., and in York district, S. C. Here they found a permanent home and spent the remainder of their days.

This last settlement was likely made prior to 1775, as we learn from a history of Steele Creek by Rev. J. B. Watt that as early as 1775 a few families from Lancaster County, Pa., originally from Ireland, settled in Steele Creek, and from that time till their organization in 1792 or 1793, received supplies by ministers direct from Ireland and Pennsylvania, and among others "Clark" is named. (Rev. Thomas Clark, we presume.)

John and Eleanor Harris preceded Dr. Clark to this country by at least ten years, and "tradition" says that John Harris rode all the way from South Carolina to New York on horseback, leading an extra horse for the doctor to ride back, and that in this way he made his first visit to the South.

Dr. Robert Lathan, in his "History of the Associate Reformed Synod of the South," says that Dr. Clark visited that portion of his congregation which went to South Carolina in 1769 (page 161); that he filled appointments in Carolina between May 1, 1770, and November 6th of the same year (page 267); that in the Fall of 1779 he preached to congregations in North Carolina when on his way to visit that part of his congregation which had settled in Abbeville County, S. C. (page 269); returning North he was released from the pastoral care of Salem, N. Y., in the Spring of 1782, and repairing to South Carolina again labored there during 1782 and 1783; returned North again in 1783 and labored as missionary of the Associate Reformed Church for two years; returned South in 1785 and began to labor permanently in Abbeville County, S. C., and that a call or petition for the permanent services of Dr. Clark was sent up from the churches of Abbeville County, S. C., to the Associate Reformed Synod which met in the city of Philadelphia, Pa., May 31, 1786, and that the Synod directed that he continue to labor among them till provision be made for his regular installment. (Page 270-271).

It is evident from the above that Dr. Clark made at least four separate visits from New York to South Carolina, and during these visits and after his permanent settlement in South Carolina, he was a welcome visitor at the comfortable home of John and Eleanor Harris.

In his last publication, a "Pastoral Letter," written from Long Cane, Abbeville County, S. C., in 1792, to the Associate congregation in Ballybay, Ireland, and printed in Salem, N. Y., in 1811, Dr. Clark says that while imprisoned "one young couple of your number came and got their marriage solemnized in prison, viz.: John Harris and Eleanor Reynolds, now settled here by the Catawba River. She lately died an eminent Christian, and her children still act as firm friends to religion, and are in comfortable circumstances."

John Harris was born in Ireland in 1727, and died at his residence in Lower Steele Creek, or Blackstock neighborhood, June 8, 1808, aged eighty-one years.

Eleanor Reynolds Harris, his wife, was born in Ireland in 1726, and died August 22, 1789, aged sixty-three years.

Their remains repose in the churchyard at Big Steele Creek, Mecklenburg County, N. C. This was their first church home, and here they worshipped regularly until the introduction of human composition into the praise service of the church, thereby displacing the Psalms, Hymns and Spiritual Songs of the Inspired Psalter, forced them to withdraw and seek supplies of preaching from other sources.

A few years later they united with others in the organization of Lower Steele Creek Church, and Rev. William Blackstock from Ireland, was ordained and installed as their first pastor June 8, 1794, hence the origin of "Blackstock Church."

John and Eleanor Harris had four sons, Hugh, born January 7, 1755, and died August 11, 1825; Robert, born in 1756, and died September 28, 1841; John, born in 1763, and died September 26, 1824; James, born September 1, 1767, and died December 12, 1833.

The two oldest sons, Hugh and Robert, were in active service during the whole of the Revolutionary War.

Once they were captured and imprisoned in Camden, S. C., but with other prisoners effected their escape and rejoined the American Army.

John Harris, Sr., and three of his sons, Hugh, John, Jr., and James, were prominent in the organization of Lower Steele Creek or Blockstock's Church, in 1792 or 1793. James was elected and ordained one of the first ruling elders.

It would seem most natural for the choice to have fallen on Hugh, the eldest, and some claim that he was an elder, but we find no record of his name among the number at the organization of the church. It is probable however that he was an Elder in Sardis Church as early as 1808.

The descendants of this historic couple have borne an active part in perpetuating the church to the present day.

CHAPTER III.

HUGH HARRIS, OLDEST SON OF JOHN AND ELEANOR.

JOHN HARRIS AND ISABELLA GRIER, CHILDREN OF HUGH HARRIS. MARTHA HARRIS WITHERSPOON, DAUGHTER OF ISABELLA GRIER, AND HER CHILDREN, THE BELLS, WITHERSPOONS AND BOYCES.

Hugh, the oldest son of John and Eleanor Reynolds Harris, was born January 7, 1755, on board the ship in which his parents sailed for America, during a protracted quarantine. At what port they landed we are not able to say. Their home was for twelve or thirteen years in Lancaster County, Pa., then they came south and permanently settled in Steele Creek, N. C. In a few years the country was involved in the "Revolutionary War," and Hugh and his brother Robert enlisted as soldiers and served through the war.

They endured many of the hardships of war, including a capture and brief imprisonment at Camden, S. C., but in the day of battle their "heads were covered," and they lived to enjoy the blessings of peace and liberty.

Hugh was married on the 11th of January, 1780, to Martha Robison, of Mecklinburg County, North Carolina. Martha was connected with that numerous family of Robisons, the early settlers of Sugar Creek, N. C. Hugh was a man much esteemed in his day, and was noted for his strict punctuality in attending the public ordinances of the church. His home was some thirteen miles distant from the church in which he worshipped two-thirds of the time, but he was usually among the first arrivals at the place Sabbath morning.

He died after a lingering sickness, as we learn from the diary of Martha Harris, his brother John's wife. "Hugh Harris, senior, departed this life upon the 11th day of August, 1825, after an illness of about ten months, which he endured with Christian patience and resignation." This diary was written seventy years ago, and is still in a good state of preservation, and contains much reliable information as to dates and events. Hugh died in the seventy-first year of his age.

Martha R. Harris, his wife, was born December, 1754, and died January 25, 1834, aged eighty years.

The remains of both lie in the cemetery at Big Steele Creek Church, Mecklinburg County, North Carolina.

Hugh's home was one mile east of Lower Steele Creek Church, near the public road, known then—and also at the present day, as "The Nation Ford Road," Nation Ford being on the Catawba River. The location is now known as the Burns' Place. Their children were six in number, John, Isabella, Eleanor, Robert, Hugh and Jane. John, the eldest child of Hugh and Martha R. Harris, was born in Mecklinburg County, N. C., February 6, 1781. John married Nancy Matthews, of Providence, Mecklinburg County, N. C.

Soon after their marriage they removed to Maury County, Tenn., and settled on a farm in the vicinity of Hopewell Associate Reformed Church. Here they lived and died; leaving no children. John Harris died May 13, 1859, aged seventy-eight years. Nancy Matthews Harris died January 16, 1866. Their remains lie in the cemetery at Hopewell Church, Maury County, Tenn., and while no marble designates the place of their rest, a few of the oldest residents can still point out their graves.

Isabella, second child of Hugh and Martha R. Harris, was born in Mechlinburg County, N. C., August 13, 1783.

August 3, 1808, she was married to Rev. Isaac Grier, D. D., one of the fathers of the "Associate Reformed Church South." Rev. Isaac Grier was born in Green County, Georgia, in 1776, and was the first Presbyterian minister produced by the state of Georgia. This fact is learned from the epitaph of his mother's tombstone, whose remains rest in the cemetery at Sardis Church, Mecklinburg County, N. C. It is the following:

In memory of Margaret Grier, a native of Ireland, and mother of the first Presbyterian minister Georgia produced. Died April 3rd, 1825.
Aged 74 years.

"It is sown in dishonour; it is raised in glory;
It is sown in weakness; it is raised in power."

His parents were Covenanters, or Reformed Presbyterians, and he was baptised by Rev. James Martin, an itinerant Covenanter minister, in Cabarrus County, N. C., where his parents had taken refuge from the more dangerous hostilities of the frontier during the Revolutionary War.

His academical education was under the Revs. Cunningham and Cummins, who conducted an academy in Georgia. He graduated from Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., under the presidency of Dr. Nesbit, in 1800.

His theological studies were under the private instruction of Rev. Alexander Porter, pastor of Long Cane Associate Reformed Church, in Abbeville County, S. C. He received license September 2, 1802, and was ordained in 1804 by the first Presbytery of the Carolinas, at Sardis church, Mecklinburg County, N. C., and installed as pastor of that congregation in connection with Providence and Waxhaws. In 1808 he demitted Waxhaws, and was installed over Blackstocks. In 1815 he resigned Providence and gave his full time to Sardis and Blackstocks. Here he labored faithfully till declining health forced him to resign in 1842. He departed this life November 2, 1843, aged sixty-seven years. Isabella, his wife, died in 1841, aged fifty-eight years. Their remains rest in the cemetery at Sardis Church, Mecklinburg County, N. C., where Dr. Grier was pastor for thirty-seven years.

Dr. Grier and Isabella had three children—Martha Harris, Robert Calvin and Isaac. Isaac died in early childhood.

Martha Harris married Rev. John G. Witherspoon, of the Associate Reformed Church, May, 1833. John G. Witherspoon was a son of John Witherspoon, an elder in Sardis Church, N. C. He received his collegiate education at Jefferson College, Pennsylvania, graduating in 1831. Was licensed by the first Presbytery in 1833; accepted a call from Gilead, in Mecklinburg County, and from Coddle Creek and New Perth, in Iredell County, N. C., and in 1834 was ordained and installed over these churches. He soon demitted Gilead, but retained Coddle Creek and New Perth till his death, which occurred January 6, 1846, in his thirty-fourth year. A violent attack of pneumonia settled on the brain, and he was cut off, as it were, in the morning of his days. His remains lie in the cemetery at Coddle Creek Church, N. C.

The children by this marriage were Isabella Jane, John Grier and James Meridith. Isaac Newton died February 12, 1843, aged one year.

Isabella Jane Witherspoon married Charles E. Bell, of Fairfield County, S. C., March 19, 1853. Charles E. Bell was born March 27, 1828, and died January 18, 1893. His remains lie in the cemetery at Ebenezer Church, Mecklinburg County, N. C.

The children of Isabella and Charles E. Bell are seventeen in number. John Calvin, born April 10, 1854; Charles Jefferson, born October 18, 1855, and died June 14, 1863; James Sylvanus, born April 17, 1857; Frederick Oscar, born January 27, 1859; Edward Martin, born January 17, 1861; Martha, born May 26, 1862; Eunice Grier, born April 10, 1864; Jessie Haseltine, born January 27, 1866; Charles Boyce, born September 12, 1867; Margaret Isabella, born February 5, 1869; Lillian Livingston, born October 11, 1870; Mary Caldwell, born February 14, 1874, and died March 11, 1875; Clifford, born April 11, 1875; Charles M., born August 5, 1876; Samuel Meridith, born November 12, 1877; an infant son died June 8, 1879, aged three weeks; and Laura White, born October 13, 1880.

John Calvin, oldest child of Charles and Isabella Bell, was married to Sue Johnson, of Charlotte, N. C., November 23, 1878. Their children are nine in number—Mortimore, Johnsie, Isabella, Kate and Josie, twins; Leo, Mattie, Charles and Edward. John Calvin resides in Charlotte, N. C. He is a ruling elder in Ebenezer Church near Charlotte.

James Sylvanus, third child of Isabella and Charles Bell, graduated from Erskine College under the Presidency of Dr. W. M. Grier in 1881. He chose the medical profession, took a full course in Maryland University and graduated in 1886. He located at Matthews, Mecklinburgh County, N. C., and married Ellie Reid of Matthews, N. C., October 20, 1886. He was building up a fine practice and was an influential member of Sardis Church, when attacked with pneumonia which in a few days ended his life, November 1, 1890, in the thirty-third year of his age, leaving a widow and two daughters, Mary Isabella and Jessie Grier.

This latter church he demitted October 6, 1856, at Hopewell, Pontatoc County, Miss., and devoted his whole time to Ebenezer.

During the late war he served as chaplain for nearly a year in the "Third Regiment of Mississippi Volunteers." He endured many exposures with the regiment and at the fall of Fort Donaldson, February 16, 1862, was taken prisoner and incarcerated at Johnson Island. From fearful exposure in prison life in that rigorous climate he suffered a protracted spell of sickness which brought him apparently to the gates of death. As soon as a parole could be procured, Rev. Neill M. Gordon, of Jessamine County, Ky., removed him from prison July 10, 1862, in a reduced condition.

of health, to his home where he tenderly nursed him until he was able to pursue his journey.

He reached his home in Tippah County, Miss., September 27, 1862. For months after his return he was on crutches and unable to stand to preach, but preached to his people in a sitting posture. These afflictions only endeared him to his people. He continued his labors with this congregation until on Thursday morning, May 19, 1881, he breathed his last. Five days before whilst visiting the sick in his congregation he was thrown from his horse and received such serious injuries that they resulted in death. His remains lie in the cemetery at Ebenezer Church, Mississippi by the side of his mother who died suddenly at his home while on a visit in 1854.

Robert Harris, fourth child of Hugh and Martha R. Harris, was born in Mecklinburg County, N. C., December 28, 1788. He was married to Hannah Rhea, of Providence, N. C., in the year 1811 or 1812. They removed to Morgan County, Ala., near to Somerville. There they lived and died. Hannah Harris died in 1858. Robert Harris died at the residence of his son John, in Somerville, Ala., September 15, 1860, in the seventy-second year of his age. The remains of both rest in Morgan County, perhaps in the cemetery of Somerville.

The family "Record" was lost or destroyed with other valuables during the late war, consequently we are not able to give many dates respecting Robert's family.

Robert and Hannah Harris had eight children, John, Isabella, Martha, James Leroy, Sarah Elizabeth, Amanda, Cynthia Witherspoon, and William Robert.

John, the eldest child of Robert and Hannah Harris, married Mary Ann Morrow, November, 1841. John was a "sadler" by trade, and we judge he must have been an expert in the business from a sample of his work he exhibited in the saddle he rode when in 1835 he visited Steele Creek, the home of his father's childhood.

John died at his home in Somerville, Ala., in 1880. His remains lie in the cemetery of that place. After a thorough course of literary and theological training James Leroy entered the ministry of the Presbyterian Church. He is now located in Dallas, Texas.

Sarah Elizabeth, fifth child of Robert and Hannah Harris, was married to William Eperson, in 1848. Four children were born to these parents, viz., Martha Virginia, John Robert, Joseph D., and Charles C.

Martha Virginia, eldest child of Sarah Elizabeth and William Eperson, was married to John Coffey. We have no record of her family.

John Robert, second child of Sarah Elizabeth and William Eperson, entered Hampden Sidney College, Virginia, and after a full course graduated. He had decided to give himself to the ministry of the Presbyterian Church, but his hopes were not realized as an early death called him to a higher ministry in Heaven. He died the year of his graduation.

Hugh Harris, fifth child of Hugh and Martha R. Harris, was born, November 22, 1791. He married Eleanor Harris, second child of John and Martha H. Harris, August 8, 1815. Eleanor was born October 14, 1792. Hugh settled near his father's home on the public road leading to Nation Ford on the Catawba River. He was at an early age elected and ordained ruling elder in Steele Creek Church, which office he filled with a conscientious devotion to duty. He was a Christian of the highest type, whose praise was in all the churches. His life came to a close on January 14, 1855, in the sixty-fourth year of his age. His remains lie in the Blackstock Cemetery. Hugh and Eleanor remained only a few years in their first home. The death of Eleanor's father, Captain John Harris, in September, 1824, necessitated a change, and they moved into the house with the widowed mother, that she might enjoy the loving ministration of her daughter in her declining years; but soon a change took place, for a malignant fever brought Eleanor's life to a close, October 30, 1828, in the thirty-sixth year of her age. She was buried in Big Steele Creek Cemetery. Eleanor was mother of the following children: John Leonard, born May 29, 1816; James Moore, born March 23, 1818; Hugh Clark, May 19, 1820; Rachel Clementina, and Martha Matilda.

John Leonard, oldest child of Hugh and Eleanor Harris, at an early age, accepted a clerkship in one of the old and reliable "firms" of Chester, and was connected with it for a number of years, and so became a permanent resident of Chester. Later he was elected cashier in the Bank of Chester, which position he held for more than thirty years. He was also prominent in all the work of the church, being a ruling elder in the Presbyterian church of Chester. John Leonard was married to Mary Ann Robertson, of Chester County, South Carolina, in May, 1850, and died on Monday, the 4th of July, 1892, in the seventy-sixth year of his age. Mary Ann Harris died in the Spring of 1856. The remains of both rest in the cemetery of Chester, South Carolina.

Two daughters were the fruit of this union, Mary and Eunice. Mary was born July, 1852. She married James Brawley, of Chester. To these parents were born eight children,—John Harris, who died in early manhood; Eunice, Annie, Mary, Rachel, Hiram, Henry and William Foote.

Eunice, youngest daughter of John Leonard and Mary Ann Harris, was born in 1855, married Norwood Obear, of the legal profession, of Winnsboro, S. C., a son of the late Rev. Obear, rector of the Episcopal church in Winnsboro. Their home was in Winnsboro for some years where Norwood Obear practiced his profession. He is now located in Washington, D. C. These parents have had four children, but only two survive, Joseph and Hugh Harris.

James Moore, second child of Hugh and Eleanor Harris, died August 29, 1829, in the eleventh year of his age.

Hugh Clark, third child of Hugh and Eleanor Harris, was married to Jane McCaule Harris, at the residence of her parents, in York County, S. C., December 22, 1841. She was a daughter of Col. James Harris, and grand daughter of Robert Harris, second son of John and Eleanor Reynolds Harris.

Hugh Clark Harris, owned by right of purchase, and occupied the "Home Place" of the "Historic Pair," where they spent their last years, the dwelling being removed to a more elevated location in a beautiful grove. Hugh Clark was an efficient deacon in Steele Creek Church; was a man of many noble traits of character, of high social qualities, a good man in every sense of the word. His death took place in Steele Creek Church, an unusual place for such a scene, but a fitting place for a good man to be translated from the earthly to the heavenly sanctuary. He had been subject to some heart trouble, but was apparently in good health the day of his death. He, with others, assembled at church for Christian Conference, or what was formerly known in "Orthodox" churches as "Quarterly Examination." The pastor, Rev. James C. Chalmers, was conducting the exercises by question and answer, and just as the question, "What is faith in Jesus Christ?" was being discussed, with his eyes and attention fixed on his pastor, Hugh Clark's spirit departed. In a moment a physician, Dr. J. M. Strong, and others were at his side, only to realize that the vital spark had fled. He died April 2, 1879, in the fifty-ninth year of his age.

His wife, Jane M., had preceded him to the grave seventeen years. She was born May 2, 1814, and died November 4, 1862, aged forty-eight. Their bodies rest in the cemetery of Blackstock Church. These parents, Hugh C. and Jane M. Harris, had three daughters. Emma Rose, the eldest, died in the bloom of youth of typhoid fever, October 2, 1862, in the eighteenth year of her age. Her mother died one month later of the same disease. Mary Anna and Mason Ella are the surviving daughters.

Mary Anna, second daughter, was married at the residence of her father to James R. Miller, of York County, S. C., December 23, 1869, by Rev. James C. Chalmers. The fruit of this union is six children, all daughters, viz.: Kate Ross, Emma Jane, Addie Allison, Clark Harris, born May 1, 1879, died July 28, 1890; Robert Mason and Johnie.

Kate Ross, the eldest, married Charles Moore Strong, M. D. Their child is given under her husband's name.

Emma Jane graduated from the Due West Female College in 1892, and has a position in the graded school of Concord, N. C.

Mason Ella, youngest daughter of Hugh Clark and Jane M. Harris, was married at the residence of her father in York County, S. C., by Rev. James C. Chalmers, September 2, 1874, to Samuel J. Alexander, M. D., of Mecklinburg County, N. C., at that time a practicing physician in Steele Creek, and son of Isaac Alexander. He was educated at Davidson College, N. C., and graduated from the Charleston Medical College, South Carolina, in 1857. Dr. Alexander's married life was short, as he died at the residence of his father-in-law, Hugh C. Harris, of diphtheria, January 20, 1876. Mason Ella Alexander makes her home with her sister, Mary A. Miller, at the old home, once the home of the "Historic Pair."

These sisters, Mary Anna and Mason Ella, have a double portion of "Harris" blood flowing in their veins. Three of their great-grandfathers were brothers, viz: Hugh, Robert and John, sons of John and Eleanor Reynolds Harris. Their paternal grandparents were Hugh and Eleanor Harris, Hugh being the son of Hugh Harris, Sr., and Eleanor, daughter of Captain John Harris. Their maternal grandfather was Colonel James Harris, son of Robert Harris.

Rachel Clementina, fourth child of Hugh and Eleanor Harris, was born, May 26, 1822, was married at her father's residence, by Rev. Isaac Grier, D. D., March 19, 1842, to William Boyce, a ruling elder in Steele Creek Church, and died on Sabbath, December 11, 1842, of pneumonia. Her remains rest in the cemetery at Blackstock Church.

Martha Matilda, the youngest child of Hugh and Eleanor Harris, was born December 21, 1824. Married John Orr of Mecklinburg County, N. C., and went West. She soon sickened and died, leaving one son, who died in boyhood. We have no dates.

Hugh Harris' second marriage was to Margaret Hemphill of Chester County, S. C., June 5, 1832. Margaret Hemphill Harris died January 23, 1847. Aged forty-five years. The fruit of this marriage was three children, Robert Hemphill, Eleanor Jeannette and Eliza Isabella.

Robert Hemphill, eldest child of Hugh and Margaret H. Harris, was born April 14, 1833. Robert H. inherited the "Home Place" of Captain John Harris and occupied for some years the same house, but later he erected a new dwelling a few hundred yards away in a grove, making a new settlement altogether, so none of the features of the old place can be recognized.

He was married, July 15, 1856, to Mary Eliza Query, daughter of Alexander Query of Steele Creek. She was born May 13, 1836. They have seven children: Hugh Whitfield, Elva Hemphill, born, December 12, 1859, died December 9, 1862; Robert Alexander, Margaret Elizabeth, Mary Isabella, Martha Jemima and Lois Jeannette.

Hugh Whitfield, eldest child of Robert H. and Mary Harris, was born July 7, 1857. He graduated from Erskine College, Due West, S. C., in July, 1878, with a major share of the honors of the class. Entered the legal profession, located at Charlotte, N. C., and is one of the rising lawyers of the city. He has also represented the County of Mecklinburg, N. C., in the Lower House of the Legislature. On the 24th of October, 1894, Hugh Whitfield Harris married Anna Gertrude Conrad of Forsythe County, N. C.

Robert Alexander, third child of Robert H. and Mary Harris, was born June 6, 1863; graduated at Erskine College, Due West, S. C., in 1883; located at West Point, Va., and is in the employ of the Southern Railway Co. He married Susan W. Courtney, of Virginia, June 27, 1893. The fruit of this union is one child, Mary, born October 24, 1894. Robert A. is a ruling elder in the General Assembly Presbyterian Church of West Point, Va.

Margaret Elizabeth, fourth child of Robert H. and Mary Harris, was born July 28, 1866, graduated from the Charlotte Female Institute in 1885, and was married by Rev. G. R. White at the residence of her parents in Steele Creek, York County, S. C., December 23, 1886, to Rev. Charles Edgar McDonald, then pastor of Steele Creek Associate Reformed Church. Charles Edgar is a son of the late Rev. L. McDonald, and was born near Richburg, Chester County, S. C., November 23, 1859. He connected with the Associate Reformed Church at Due West, S. He was licensed by the First Presbytery of the Synod of the South at Shiloh, Lancaster County, S. C., September 6, 1881, and ordained and installed pastor of Steele Creek Church, Mecklinburg County, N. C., November 3, 1882. Here he labored till April, 1892, when he demitted Steele Creek and accepted a call from Winnsboro Church, Fairfield County, S. C., the late charge of Rev. John T. Chalmers, who had removed to Philadelphia. He was installed by the First Presbytery in this charge, May 13, 1892. The only child of these parents, Rev. C. E. and Margaret Elizabeth McDonald, was Charles Stinson, who was born December 12, 1887, and died April 28, 1888, aged four months and sixteen days. Its remains lie in the cemetery of old Blackstock Church in York County, S. C.

It might be of interest to relate a somewhat unusual incident in connection with Rev. C. E. McDonald's respective pastorates. He was the immediate successor of the late Rev. James C. Chalmers, in his pastorate in Steele Creek, N. C., and in his pastorate of Winnsboro, S. C., he succeeded Rev. John T. Chalmers, son of Rev. James C. Chalmers.

Mary Isabella and Martha Jemima, daughters of Robert H. and Mary Eliza Harris, are graduates of the Charlotte Institute. Lois Jeannette, the youngest daughter, is a graduate of the Due West Female College of the class of 1892. All have been engaged in teaching at different periods since graduating.

Eleanor Jeannette, second child of Hugh and Margaret Hemphill, was born September 27, 1836. She was married to Morrison Caldwell, of Mecklinburg County, N. C., September 22, 1859, at the residence of her brother, Robert H. Harris, York County, S. C., by Rev. James C. Chalmers. The fruit of this union was one son, Morrison H., who was born August 23, 1860, and married Rosa McCorkle, of Salisbury, Rowan County, N. C., December 12, 1889.

Morrison Caldwell entered the Confederate service, was mortally wounded at the battle of Chancellorsville, Va., on May 3, 1862, and died on the 7th of May at the field hospital.

Chalmers April 29, 1862, to J. Elam Caldwell, of Mecklinburg County, N. C. Elam Caldwell, married William Edwin Harris, October 23, 1889, at the residence of her parents, at Harrisburg, N. C. Their only child, Ellen Hemphill, was born January 3, 1892. William Edwin Harris, is a descendent of another Harris family, of Mecklinburg County, N. C., not connected with the Harris family under discussion. Hugh Harris' third marriage was to Mary Walker, of Mecklinburg County, N. C., January 28, 1851. Mary Walker Harris died May 24, 1874, in the seventy-fourth year of her age. Her remains lie beside those of her husband, in the Old Blackstock Cemetery.

Upon his removing in 1859 to Ebenezer Associate Reformed Church, Tippah County, Mississippi, he was received as an elder and served the church in that capacity till death. During the war in visiting his step-son in the army, he contracted measles which resulted in his death, June 6, 1862. The cemetery at Ebenezer Church contains the remains of both husband and wife.

The fruit of this marriage was one child, Rachel Jane, who was born in Mecklinburg County, N. C., September 21, 1849. In 1858, he accepted a call from Sardis Church, Mecklinburg County, N. C., and was installed in the fall of that year. He demitted Sardis in the Spring of 1886, in consequence of a partial stroke of paralysis received in the pulpit at Thyatira, a branch of the Sardis Church.

Rev. John Hunter was married three times, first (as has been stated) to Isabella H. Peoples, who is the mother of all his children, and who died August 3, 1859, aged thirty-eight years. Her remains lie in the cemetery at Sardis. His second marriage was to Mrs. Martha Simonton Bell, of Fairfield County, S. C., December 10, 1861; born January 1, 1826, and died May 9, 1864, aged thirty-eight years. His third marriage was October 9, 1866, to Mary Ann McDill, of Chester County, S. C. Jane Eliza, the eldest child, was born September 14, 1846. She entered the Female College at Due West, S. C., with bright prospects of completing her education and of fitting herself for greater usefulness, but in a short time, however, symptoms of a pulmonary disease developed, and she was brought home to linger a few months and then fill an early grave. She died November 29, 1863.

Richard Brown, second child of Rev. John Hunter and Isabella, was born April 20, 1848. He took a partial course in Erskine College. He married Margaret Eleanor Cannon October 8, 1867, daughter of J. M. and Deborah Eliza Robison Cannon, a descendant of the same branch, (Hugh Harris, Sr.) They Moffatt died aged six weeks, and Meridith died aged thirteen months.

Matthew Henry, sixth child of Jane and Richard Peoples, was born in Mecklinburg County, N. C., February 13, 1829. He was married October 14, 1852, to Margaret Adaline Neal, at the residence of her father, General William Neal, in Steele Creek, Mecklinburg County, N. C. She was born March 1, 1832. Matthew Henry was a resident for a few years of Ash County, N. C. When the Mission Church of Laurel Springs of that county, conducted by Rev John Hunter, was dissolved, he removed to Iredell County, N. C., in the bounds of Rev. Wm. B. Pressly's charge. From that county he entered the Confederate service as a captain. He fell mortally wounded on June 27, 1862, and died July 2, 1862. His remains were brought home and interred in the cemetery at Sardis Church, N. C., in the bounds of which he was born and reared.

Very soon Margaret Adaline removed to Steele Creek, with her family of five small children, all too young to realize their loss, the youngest being only four months old. In Steele Creek her life came to a close, February 9, 1892. Her remains were interred in the cemetery at Big Steele Creek. Their children, six in number, are Emma Jane, born July, 30, 1853; William Neal, born June 9, 1855; infant daughter, born April 28, 1857, and died 1857; Richard Baxter, born May 27, 1858; Edgar Harris, born December, 24, 1860; Matthew Henry, born in Iredell County, N. Hunter, wife of Rev. John Hunter, died after a protracted illness. Isabella was taken to the house of her parents where she could have their constant and loving care, and be near an only sister, who was similarly afflicted. They peacefully passed away within three days of each other. "They were lovely and pleasant in their lives and in death they were not divided."

James Harvey, eighth child of Jane and Richard Peoples, was born in Mecklinburg County, N. C., November 22, 1834. He graduated from Erskine College in the Summer of 1856, Rev. R. C. Grier, D. He occupied the "old home" on McAlpen's Creek, six miles south of Sardis Church, Is a ruling elder in Sardis Church, Rev. R. G. Miller. pastor. Richard Ramsey has been married three times, first by Rev. R. W. Brice to Agnes Ann McDill of Chester County, S. C., December 18, 1866, a daughter of the late Colonel James McDill of Chester County, S. C. She was born July 4, 1841, and died, October 15, 1867, leaving one child, Agnes Jane, born October 10, 1867. She was only five days old at her mother's death, was raised by her grandmother McDill, in Chester County, S. C., and was married at her residence on January 30, 1889, by Rev. John A. White to Rev. Accepting calls from Hickory Spring and Shady Grove Churches, in the State of Arkansas, he was ordained and installed pastor of these churches by the Arkansas Presbytery, December 4, 1888. The relation was dissolved in 1893, and he was transferred to the Memphis Presbytery, and by it, installed pastor of Salem Associate Reformed Church, Tipton County, Tenn., March 3, 1893.

Agnes Jane and Rev. T. G. Boyce, have two children, James Harvey, born November 1, 1889; and Iva Theresa, born November 26, 1891.

Richard Ramsey's third marriage was to Margaret Amanda Wylie, February 9, 1886, daughter of the late John Wylie, of York County, S. C. Margaret Amanda was born in 1839.

This closes, so far as our information goes, the record of the descendants of Hugh Harris, eldest son of John and Eleanor Reynolds Harris. Some were partial to their "kith and kin," several of the families overlapping by intermarriage. We find one in the legal profession, six who have chosen medicine as their field of usefulness, and quite a number in the ministry. The following lineal descendants entered this profession: R. C. Grier, W. M. Grier, B. H. Grier, M. B. Grier, R. Livy Grier, R. Leroy Grier, J. S. Grier, J. J. Grier, J. H. Peoples, H. H. Robison, J. F. Cannon, J. L. Harris and C. E. Eperson. Livingston Grier and J. R. Eperson died in course of preparation for the ministry, fifteen in all.

The following preachers are connected by marriage: Isaac Grier, J. G. Witherspoon, James Boyce, John Hunter, S. A. Agnew, T. G. Boyce, J. E. Martin, G. R. White, D. B. Pressly, J. S. Moffatt, C. E. McDonald, R. W. Mills, A. E. Sample and D. W. Wiseman, fourteen, making a total of twenty-nine.

It is indeed gratifying that so many can be classed under the impressive and beautiful imagery of the Prophet, and repeated by the great Apostle: "How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things."

CHAPTER VIII.

DESCENDANTS OF ROBERT HARRIS, SECOND SON OF JOHN AND ELEANOR REYNOLDS HARRIS.

Robert, second son of John and Eleanor Harris, was born in Lancaster County, Pa., in 1756. He, with his brother Hugh, was in service during the Revolutionary War. Robert purchased a part of that extensive body of land owned by the Polks of North Carolina, that lay partly in Mecklinburg County, N. C., and York District, S. C., and was known as the "Polk land," his purchase being from that section that lay in York District, S. C., six or seven miles south of where his father and brothers located and immediately on the Catawba River. His dwelling was in full view of the river. Here he lived and died. He was married to Jane McCaule in 1779, who was born in 1758, a daughter of Rev. Thomas Harris McCaule.

During the Revolutionary War the Rev. Thomas Harris McCaule, was pastor of that large Presbyterian congregation, "Centre," in Mecklinburg County, N. C. He was a graduate of Princeton College, New Jersey, and was ordained in 1776. "Scarce of medium height, a stout frame and full body, with dark piercing eyes, a pleasant countenance and winning manners, with a fine voice; he was popular both as a preacher and as a man.

Public spirited, he encouraged the Revolution

* * * * went with his flock to the camp and was at the side of General Wm. Davidson when he fell at Cowan's Ford on the Catawba River, gallantly resisting Cornwallis. His classical attainments were such, that after the peace, when Mount Zion College was established in Winnsborough, S. C. he was made its principal professor," (Foote's History of Presbyterianism in North Carolina.) He was also trustee of "Liberty Hall Academy," located in Charlotte, N. C., chartered by the Legislature of North Carolina after the Revolutionary War began. "Foote" also says; "The pre-eminence of 'Liberty Hall,' as supplying the place of a college for the South, was transferred to Mount Zion College, Winnsborough, S. C., over which the Rev. Thomas Harris McCaule, the pastor of Centre congregation for some years and trustee of Liberty Hall, presided." During his presidency of the college, sons of prominent men from all parts of South Carolina, attended the college. He retired from the college in July 20, 1793, and died in connection with the South Carolina Presbytery in 1796.

A venerable lady of Charleston, S. C., whose father graduated in Mount Zion College under the presidency of Rev. T. Harris McCaule, says: "My father often spoke of him in terms of warmest commendation, regarding him as a man eminently fitted for the position he held, being highly educated and remarkably pious."

Robert Harris connected with the Presbyterian Church, and was present at the organization of Unity

Church, a few miles distant from his home, now called Fort Mill, York County, S. C. He was elected and ordained one of the ruling elders at its organization about 1788. This position he filled until his death, which occurred September 28, 1841, in the eighty-fifth year of his age, a period of fifty-three years. His wife, Jane McCaule Harris died January 24, 1816, aged fifty-eight years. The remains of both lie in the cemetery at Fort Mill Church. We regret our inability to give the order of birth of Robert Harris' children, having secured the date of a part only of the family. Faithful efforts were made to procure the reliable record of the "Old Family Bible," but failed to do so, hence, cannot give dates and order.

Robert and Jane McCaule Harris were the parents of nine children, namely, Eleanor, James, Josiah, Malinda, Nancy, Robert, Hugh, John and Brown Lee.

Eleanor, eldest child of Robert and Jane McCaule Harris, was born April 7, 1781. She was married at the residence of her parents, August 14, 1806, to James McKee, who was born October 5, 1783. In later years he was elected and ordained a ruling elder in Unity Presbyterian Church, now Fort Mill. He died January 18, 1851, aged sixty-eight years.

Eleanor McKee died May 12, 1850, aged sixty-nine years. Their remains lie in the cemetery at Fort Mill, S. C. Eleanor and James McKee are the parents of ten children only four of whom lived to rear families; Samuel, born in 1807; Robert Harris, born December 25, 1808, died April 1, 1827; William, born December 14, 1810, killed July 17, 1838; Edwin Leroy, born October 7, 1812, died August 4, 1839; Eleanor Louisa Clark, and James Morrison, twins, born September 21, 1814; Josiah Alexander, born July 21, 1816, died November 27, 1838; Isaac Chauncy, born August 4, 1818, died April 5, 1820; Margaret Jane, born April 15, 1820; and John Brown, born February 23, 1823, died June 28, 1839.

Samuel, eldest child of Eleanor and James McKee, was married to Cynthia C. Morrison, May 7, 1835. She was sister to Rev. James Morrison of Virginia, and was in a lineal way connected with "Mary Moore" of Revolutionary fame.

These parents, Samuel and Cynthia McKee, have two children, Mary Eleanor and Louisa. Mary Eleanor married Wm. Leeve. Samuel resided in Lowndes County, Ala., and died there June 10, 1842, in the thirty-fifth year of his age. Cynthia McKee after the death of her husband removed to Pensacola Florida.

James Morrison, fifth child of Eleanor and James McKee, was born in York County, S. C., September 21, 1814, a twin with Louisa. In his youth he accompanied his older brother, Samuel, to Alabama. There he entered the ministry of the Presbyterian Church. His labors were principally confined to that state.

His daughter writes: "My father was a member of South and East Alabama Presbytery for thirty years and more. When he died he was one of East Alabama's most honored and loved members. He graduated at no college, having received most of his literary and common school education, as well as languages at Ebenezer Academy, near Yorkville, S. C. Neither do I think he was in a Theological Seminary. If at all, it was only for a short time. He studied with Rev. Wm. Martin at Sandy Ridge, Lowndes County, Ala. He was a fine Greek, Latin and Hebrew scholar and was always a hard student." He preached for a short time in Charlotte, N. C., but his only pastorates were in the state of Alabama. He was for a period of ten years pastor of the large country church at Sandy Ridge, Lowndes County. He was pastor also of Orian and Providence churches for ten or fifteen years. His daughter again says: "His last work was in the evangelistic field in the East Alabama Presbytery. In this his whole heart was engaged, travelling in the least settled districts, without thought of fatigue or personal comfort, his deep-toned piety and well-rounded Christianity were well known." During his labors in this field his work came suddenly to a close, for entering a swollen stream he was drowned May 4, 1869.

Rev. James Morrison McKee was twice married; first to Susan F. Cook, of Haynesville, Lowndes County, Ala. The fruit of this union was two sons, James Payson and Edward Hampton, both of whom lost their lives in the late war. James was killed in Virginia at Port Republic. Edward Hampton, who was an unusually fine mathematician and had studied civil engineering before the war, died in the hospital of Camp Measles. Neither of these brothers was married.

Rev. James M. McKee's second marriage was to Mrs. Olivia H. Olmstead, of Floyd, New York, December 4, 1842, at Selma, Ala. The fruit of this union was five children, three of whom are living, Edwin Leroy, Harvey Lloyd and Caroline Louisa. John McPherson, born March 5, 1851, died January 4, 1880; and William Henry, born June 18, 1855, died in infancy.

She was born September 24, 1850. These parents have three children: Eddie Courtney, born December 10, 1879; William Leroy, born June 21, 1882, and Ethel Louisiana, born April 29, 1884. Edwin Leroy has been a farmer, but is now in business in Cahaba, Ala.

Five children were born to these parents, viz., Augusta S., February 1, 1869; James M., October 4, 1872; John M., February 9, 1876; Harvey L., May 26, 1879, and Howard R., born December 5, 1883, and died March 9, 1885.

Caroline Louisa, third child of Rev. James M. and Olivia McKee, was born in Alabama December 13, 1848, and was married May 5, 1868, to Charles Ward Hooper of Georgia, who was born May 24, 1843. He is a ruling elder in the First or Broad Street Presbyterian Church, Selma, Ala. The fruit of this union is ten children: Lloyd McKee born April 13, 1869; William, September 17, 1872, and died May 22, 1874; Olive, January 6, 1874; Caroline Edith, August 26, 1876; Ada Byrd, January 20, 1879; May, March 9, 1881; Charles Morrison, October 1, 1883, and died October 24, 1885; Harvey Lowry, July 28, 1885; James Jefferson, February 25, 1890, and Elsey Kay, August 4, 1892.

Lloyd McKee Hooper, the eldest of these children was married October 19, 1894, to Anna Steel Coleman of Alabama. Their home is in Selma, Ala.

Eleanor Louisa Clark, daughter of Eleanor and James McKee, a twin with James Morrison, was married to Robert H. Fullwood, of York County, S. C., May 12, 1836. Robert H. Fullwood was born March 9, 1801, and died July 29, 1871. Eleanor Louisa died July 24, 1845. These parents had six children, only two of whom lived beyond infancy, Robert H., born December 24, 1836, and Frances Ellen, October 30, 1839, and died October 12, 1843.

Robert H., the eldest child of Eleanor Louisa and Robert H. Fullwood, married December, 1859, Frances Elizabeth Harris, daughter of Stanhope A. Harris, a grandson of Robert Harris, Sr. The children of these parents are eight in number, William, Lee, Edward, Samuel, Hope, Gad, Lilla and Frank.

Edward, third child of Robert H. and F. E. Fullwood married Jennie ——, and they have one child, Robert.

Lilla, youngest daughter of Robert H. and Frances Elizabeth Fullwood, married Morrison Faris. They have two children, Viola and Guy. Robert H. Fullwood removed to Texas, and the entire family are residents of that state.

Margaret Jane, ninth child of Eleanor and James McKee, was married at the residence of her parents in York County, S. C., November 14, 1844, to Thomas Dryden Spratt, a graduate of South Carolina College, class of 1825, of the same county, who was born November, 8, 1804, and died April 3, 1884. Margaret Jane died December 17, 1887. Their remains lie in the cemetery at Fort Mill, S. C. Eight children were born to these parents, James, August 12, 1845; Thomas, July 14, 1847; John McKee, April 23, 1849; Barnett McRea, May 3, 1851; Eleanor, born February 27, 1853, and died September 16, 1854; Mary Anna, September 16, 1855; Margaret Ida, July 10, 1857; and Walter Edwin, January, 10, 1860.

In the autumn of 1871 he entered the Theological Seminary in Columbia, S. C., and after a three years course graduated in 1874, and was licensed during that year by the Bethel Presbytery and was ordained by the same Presbytery in 1875.

For some years he was pastor of Hopewell Church in York County, S. C. He also supplied Six Mile Creek Church, in Lancaster County, giving half his time to each church. After his resignation of these churches, he devoted his time to the instruction of the colored people, both preaching to them and teaching.

He removed from his native state in 1888, and is now located in Collingsworth, Ky. On account of a conscientious change of views on some points of Christian faith and practice, he changed his ecclesiastical relations and is now preaching in connection with the Baptist Church in Collingsworth, and is also teaching.

James was married to Rosanna Cairns, in 1883. One son, Zacheus, is the fruit of this union, who was born November, 1884. Rosanna C. Spratt, died December 17, 1887. When the shadow of death fell across his threshold, it brought a double bereavement. It shut out the light of two homes. During Rosanna's last sickness his own dear mother left her home and came to minister to her comfort. In a short time she was stricken with pneumonia, and after a few days of suffering passed away the same day that Rosanna departed, and almost at the same hour, so they were not long separated.

It is a day long to be remembered by friends, and the congregation of Fort Mill, when two caskets with their precious contents were brought into the church and placed side by side, and after the solemn exercises conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Thornwell, were borne away to the cemetery, there again to rest side by side until the morning of the Resurrection.

Edgar Harris, eldest child of Elizabeth J. and Rev. J. M. Walker, was born April 27, 1852, graduated from Erskine College, South Carolina, and was married by Rev. Murray, of Greenwood, S. C., December 26, 1871, to Elizabeth R. Lomax, of Abbeville County, S. C., who was born August 10, 1855.

The children of these parents are Susan Bertha, born October 28, 1872; James Erling, August 16, 1874, who, in a competitive examination for Annapolis Naval Academy, received the appointment, standing highest above a number of applicants; John McCullough, September 4, 1876; and William Lomax, January 20, 1878.

Edgar Harris Walker is a resident of Charlotte, N. C., holding the office of County Treasurer.

Mary Jane Estelle, youngest child of Elizabeth and Rev. James M. Walker, was born July 31, 1858. She was married at the residence of her step-father, R. M. White, Esq., in Charlotte, N. C., October 14, 1879, by Rev. A. W. Miller, D.D., to Walter S. Pharr, son of the late Rev. Samuel Pharr, D.D., who was born in Mecklinburg County, N. C., July 10, 1856. Walter S. Pharr is an efficient member of the "Board of Education" of Mecklinburg County, N. C. They have five children, Robert Baxter, born October 22, 1880; Ernest Springs, January 4, 1883; Walter Hazel, December 26, 1886; Edgar Walker, March 4, 1889; and Jennie Estelle, July 22, 1894.

Elizabeth Jane Walker's second marriage was to R. M. White, of Charlotte, N. C., which took place at her residence in Mecklinburg County, December 14, 1865. The fruit of this union was two children, John Wilson, born October 14, 1866; and William Cyrus, July 14, 1868. John Wilson was married to Anna Heilig Holmes, of Salisbury. N. C., October 20, 1891. One child was born to these parents, John Holmes, January 15, 1893. Anna Holmes White died January 28, 1893. The motherless grandchild and the two sons are all under the parental roof in Charlotte, N. C.

Eleanor Ann, youngest child of Hugh Harris by the second marriage, was born May 21, 1838, and was married to Hugh William Stinson, January 9, 1857. The fruit of this union was twelve children, only seven of whom are living, Elizabeth Jane, Cora Bethel, John Harris, Martha Rebecca, Mark Matthews, Ella, Julia, James Walker, Corinna Annice and McKamia Wilson. We failed to secure the names of the other two and have no dates of the father's death. The mother of these children died November 19, 1878.

Elizabeth Jane, the eldest child, married William Alexander. Seven children were born to these parents, Eleanor Mabel, Elizabeth Jane, Eugene, Edgar Walker, Maurise Stinson, Heriot Clarkson and Ida Manica.

Ella, sixth child of Eleanor and William Stinson, married John Dunlap, and they have two children, Eleanor and Maurise.

Corinna Annice, ninth child of Eleanor and William Stinson, married William Clark. They have two children, Eleanor and Eloise.

Jane Matthews Harris, widow of Hugh Harris, was married November 30, 1841, to Hon. John Walker, an elder in Sardis congregation. She died October 16, 1856, in her thirty-ninth year, and her remains rest in the cemetery at Sardis Church, Mecklinburg County, N. C.

Hugh Harris' remains lie in the cemetery at Providence Presbyterian Church. He lived and died in the bounds of that church.

Brown Lee, the youngest child of Robert and Jane McCaule Harris, married Mary Hart. They had one child, a daughter Sarah, who married J. J. Porter, of Providence, Mecklinburg County. Nine children are the fruit of this marriage, Rebecca, Edgar, Martha, Mary, Sarah, John, James, Annice and Banks.

Edgar, second child, married Miss Crenshaw.

Martha, third child, married Herbert Frost. They have two children, Ethel and Malinda.

John, sixth child, married Susan Leper.

Brown Lee's second marriage was to Mrs. Thompson. Mary Isabella is the only child of this marriage.

She married Simon M. Mills. Two children were born to these parents, Ladson Harris, deceased, and Cynthia Elizabeth, who married B. Frank Massey. Four children are the fruit of this union, John McCullough, Franklin, Ladson Mills and Leonidas.

Brown Lee remained in the home with his father, caring for him in his declining years.

This completes the record of the descendants of Robert Harris, second son of John and Eleanor Reynolds, so far as our information goes. From some of the families we failed to get any information, and others seem to be lost sight of altogether. This we very much regret. While none have entered the medical or legal professions, we find six in the ministry, Josiah Harris, James M. McKee, James Spratt, and John Stitt Harris, while James M. Walker and G. W. Davies are connected by marriage, all reared in the Presbyterian faith.

CHAPTER IX.

JOHN HARRIS, JR., THIRD SON OF JOHN AND ELEANOR REYNOLDS HARRIS, AND MARY GRIER, ELDEST CHILD OF JOHN HARRIS, JR.

John Harris, third son of John and Eleanor Reynolds Harris, was born in Lancaster County, Pa., in 1763. He was married in 1790, and as we have his marriage recorded by himself, one hundred and five years ago, will give it in his own words: "John Harris and Martha Hunter were joined in wedlock April 1, 1790."

Martha was a daughter of Robert and Mary Hunter, of Big Steele Creek Congregation, Mecklinburg County, N. C. John departed this life on Sabbath, the 26th of September, 1824, aged sixty-one years. Martha, his wife, died October 6, 1830, in the sixty-ninth year of her age. The remains of both lie in Big Steele Creek Cemetery, where all the older members of the Harris' family are interred, and in which church the father and sons once worshipped.

John settled on land adjoining his father's plantation, west of Lower Steele Creek, or "Blackstock Church." The old building of this church was removed several years ago, and nothing marks the place except the grave yard, which is enclosed with a neat rock wall, and contains the dust of some of the Harris' family in common with others. The congregation, desiring a more modern building and also a more central location, erected a church four miles north of the old church, on the public road leading from Charlotte, N. C., to Yorkville, S. C.

As was the custom with the early settlers, the dwelling was located near the spring. In a short time this building gave way to a more commodious dwelling farther up the slope, with a well of water in the yard, and every other improvement necessary to the convenience and comfort of a country home. In this home John and Martha Harris lived and died, and here all the marriage festivities of the children were held, of which there were five, viz., those of Mary, Eleanor, Nancy, John Moore and Martha Hunter. John Harris, Jr., was generally called "Capt." John Harris, having been an officer of the State Militia.

Mary, his eldest child, was born March 30, 1791, and married Colonel Thomas I. Grier, of Steele Creek, December 18, 1810. Colonel Grier was born December 25, 1785, and died April 10, 1872, aged eighty-seven years. Mary Grier died November 26, 1845, aged fifty-four years. The remains of both rest in the cemetery at Big Steele Creek Church.

Their children are eight in number: John Harris, James Alexander, Martha Hannah, Thomas Pringle, Ebenezer Clarkson, Mary Jane, Charles Strong and Anderson. John Harris, eldest child of Mary and Colonel Thomas I. Grier, was born September 25, 1811, and was married to Margaret P. Ross at the residence of Dr. John Moore Harris, her brother-in-law, York County, S. C., by Rev. Archibald White May 8, 1834. Margaret was born March 30, 1813, and died October 19, 1841. John Harris died May 12, 1864. They had two children, Malvina and William Lowndes. Malvina was born February 21, 1835, and died May 10, 1883, and lies by the side of her parents in Big Steele Creek Cemetery. Her first marriage was to James Blankenship, who soon died, leaving one child, Margaret Ella, who married James Harris October 19, 1871, a descendant of Robert Harris, Sr. Her second marriage was to James Elms, who fell a victim to the late war, leaving Malvina with two children, Eula and William A.

Eula married Frank Wiley, and died in 1891, leaving six children, Arthur, Eleanor, Bessie, Grier, Clara and Lillian. William A., second child of Malvina and James Elms, was married to Emma L. Garrison, of York County, S. C., January 11, 1888, by Rev. J. K. Fant. They have three children, Ella Gertrude, born October 16, 1888; Mary Loreenna, May 22, 1891, and Livy Grier, March 1, 1893.

William Lowndes, second child of John H. and Margaret P. Grier, was born May 10, 1838, and married Mary Barron, of York County, S. C., daughter of John Barron. Two sons were born to them, Frank Barron and Harry Percy. Both sons entered the "Legal Profession." William Lowndes' second marriage was to Fannie Kensey.

Emeline Bowden March 10, 1846. They had only one child, Frances Mary, who was born January 22, 1850. She married N. Wimble, of Virginia; one child was the fruit of this marriage, Mary Emeline. Fannie M. Wimble died October, 1891.

John Harris Grier's third marriage was to Lucy Smith, of York County, S. C., January 5, 1860, by whom he had two sons, Leonard and Thomas. Leonard was born November 12, 1860; Thomas J. May 10, 1863.

Leonard married Julia Gardy. Their children are Loreenna and Lucy. Leonard and Thomas are residents of Florida.

James Alexander Grier, second child of Mary and Thomas I. Grier, born September 14, 1814, was also married three times, first to Jane Moore, of York County, S. C., November 24, 1842, who died June 23, 1846.

His remains, with those of the deceased members of his family lie in Northern Mississippi, near to Holly Springs.

CHAPTER X.

NANCY HARRIS STRONG, THIRD CHILD OF JOHN HARRIS,
JR., AND HER CHILDREN, DR. JOHN MASON STRONG,
MARTHA JANE YOUNG AND MARY LETITIA CHAL-MERS.

Nancy, third child of John and Martha Harris, was also called Agnes, especially by her father. The date of her birth is written in her father's own hand and she is called Agnes. We infer from this that she was baptised Agnes. He had her silver also all engraved "A. H."

Nancy or Agnes married Rev. Charles Strong of the Associate Reformed Church. Charles was a son of James and Letitia Strong of Chester District, S. C. Charles Strong was born August 4, 1788. Nancy Harris was born November 11, 1794. They were married February 13, 1817.

On January 10, 1805, the doors of the South Carolina College were opened for the first time, and Charles Strong entered with the first class the same year and graduated in 1808 in a class of thirty-one. He, with two others, Revs. James and Joseph Lowry, cousins of his own, furnished their own provision and boarded themselves in a room in the college building set apart for that purpose.

Judge O'Neal of South Carolina, once a devoted pupil of Charles Strong and also his biographer, says: "Notwithstanding this difficulty, by which many of the present youths would not only be startled, but would be turned back from the pursuit of an education, these clever young men pursued their studies, graduated good scholars and became useful men. And all afterwards became ministers of the Gospel, teachers and preachers of their mighty Master's word." After graduating Charles Strong taught the Newberry Academy with ability and success for several years.

In the Autumn of 1811 he was received as a student of theology by the First Presbytery of the Carolinas. Soon after he entered the Associate Reformed Seminary in New York City, and took a four years course of theology under Dr. John M. Mason, D. D.

He was licensed July 13, 1815. Accepting a call from the united congregations of Cannon's Creek, King's Creek and Prosperity, in Newberry District, S. C., he was ordained to the office of the holy ministry, and on the 8th of November, 1816, was installed pastor of these congregations. Here he labored with much acceptance for the short period of eight years, when he was stricken down with a malignant fever which closed his earthly labors in the vigor of his days, and in the midst of great usefulness, on Tuesday the 20th of July, 1824. Charles Strong was also the founder of the Newberry Auxiliary Bible Society and its President until his death. His remains lie in the cemetery at Cannon's Creek Church.

The following is a copy of the inscription upon his monument.

“Sacred
To the memory of the Rev. Charles Strong,
Son of James Strong Esq. of Chester District, and pastor for eight years of the Congregations of King's Creek, Cannon's Creek and Prosperity.

He lived beloved, and died lamented by all who knew him. On the 20th of July 1824, in the 36th year of his age, his life of usefulness closed.

He was distinguished for his vigorous intellect and amiable manners, his unassuming and dignified deportment, his solid and extensive learning, his firm attachment to Evangelical truth, his fervent and consistent piety.

‘Mark the perfect man and behold the upright, for the end of that man is peace.’ ”

The grave is enclosed and covered with a neat marble slab, the loving tribute of devoted parishioners. Five children were left fatherless by his death, John Mason, Martha Jane, Mary Letitia, Eleanor Euphemia and Nancy Caroline. In two short months the young mother experienced another bereavement in the death of her father, John Harris, Jr., upon whom she leaned for earthly comfort and support. But in those short months he was not unmindful of her comfort, as he had provided for her a comfortable home near to his own, in Steele Creek, N. C., where she removed and spent her remaining days. She died November 8, 1842, in her forty-eight year.

Her only son, John Mason, was born in Newberry County, S. C., September 1, 1818, and entered Jefferson College in Cannonsburg, Pa., in 1839, and graduated in 1841, under the presidency of Dr. Matthew Brown. He chose the medical profession and attended one course of lectures in Charleston, S. C., but graduated from the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, Pa., in 1847. His first and only home has been in Steele Creek, where he was reared, and there he has successfully practiced his profession for nearly fifty years, attaining an eminence and popularity reached by only a favored few. He is a ruling elder in Steele Creek Associate Reformed Church.

John Mason has been twice married, first to Rachel Eleanor Harris, daughter of Dr. John Moore Harris, on April 7, 1851. Their children are Elva Euphemia, Charles Moore, Lola May, William Mason and Egbert Hill, who was born June 12, 1865, and died July 8, 1866, aged one year.

Elva Euphemia was born August 31, 1852, married John Miller Boyce, of York County, S. C., December 20, 1870, a son of Wm. Boyce. J. M. Boyce was born November 23, 1848, and pursued an eclectic course in Erskine College for two years. The fruit of this marriage was one son, John Mason, born September 4, 1879. John M. Boyce died July 22, 1879. His remains lie in Blackstock Cemetery.

Elva Euphemia's second marriage was to W. Frank Moore, of York County, S. C., February, 1884. They have one son, Oren McCreight, born May 31, 1886. Their home is in Blacksburg, York County, S. C.

Charles Moore, second child of Dr. J. M. Strong, entered the medical profession, located near his father in Steele Creek, and is associated with him in his practice. Charles Moore graduated from the University of Maryland after a three year's course in 1887. In 1891 he took a post graduate course in the Polyclinic School in New York City. He married Kate Ross Miller April 21, 1891, a descendant of Robert Harris, Sr. Charles Moore was born September 19, 1862; Kate Ross, November 17, 1870. She is a graduate of the Due West Female College of the class of 1890. Charles Miller is their only child, born February 27, 1892.

Lola May, third child of Dr. J. M. and Rachel Eleanor Strong, was born December 29, 1867. She was married at her father's residence in 1890 by Rev. C. E. McDonald to Edgar Harris Peoples, a descendant of Hugh Harris, Sr. She has one child mentioned under its father's name.

William Mason, the youngest child of Dr. J. M. Strong, was born September 22, 1875. Rachel Eleanor, the mother of these children, was born July 27, 1832, and died May 27, 1880. Her remains lie in the cemetery at Big Steele Creek Church. Dr. John Mason Strong's second marriage was to Mrs. Nancy Grier, at her residence in Steele Creek, September 5, 1883, Rev. Charles E. McDonald performing the ceremony.

Martha Jane, second child of Rev. Charles and Nancy Strong, was born in Newberry County, S. C., January 18, 1820. She was married at the residence of her mother, in Steele Creek, N. C., by Rev. Isaac Grier, D. D., to Rev. John S. Pressly, of the Associate Reformed Church, September 29, 1842. Rev. John S. Pressly graduated from the South Carolina College. In 1831 he was a member of the Legislature of South Carolina, and it is a matter of history, that partly through his influence and measures introduced by him into the House of Representatives, steps were taken that led to the impeachment and removal of the learned, but infidel, President of South Carolina College, Dr. Cooper. John S. Pressly was for some years before he entered the ministry a popular educator. He was the founder of the Academy at Due West, S. C., that developed into Erskine College in 1839.

His first theological course was taken at Oxford, O., under the presidency of Rev. Joseph Claybaugh, D. D. The second year was in the Seminary at Allegheny, Pa., under the presidency of Rev. John T. Pressly, D.D. He was licensed October 8, 1840, at Bethel, Lincoln County, Tenn., by the Second Presbytery of the Synod of the South, and was ordained by the same Presbytery, at a meeting of Synod at Coddle Creek, N. C., October 14, 1841. He accepted a call from the congregations of Bethel and Ebenezer, in Burke and Jefferson Counties, Ga., in 1842. In April 1843 he was installed pastor by the Georgia Presbytery. Rev. John S. Pressly was forced from ill-health to resign his charge in 1847. He then located near to Generostee Church, Anderson County, S. C., teaching and preaching as he was able. His long and useful life came to a close June 1, 1863. His remains repose in the cemetery of Generostee Church, Anderson County, S. C.

Martha Jane's second marriage was to Rev. James L. Young, of the Associate Reformed Church, January 8, 1867. Mr. Young, a son of Francis Young and brother of Rev. J. N. Young, LL. D., was born in Abbeville County, S. C., December 8, 1808. He graduated in the Miami University, Oxford, O. His theological course was taken in the Associate Reformed Seminary in Allegheny, Pa., under the presidency of Rev. John T. Pressly, D. D. In 1836 he was ordained by the Second Presbytery, and installed pastor over the united congregations of Bethel, Laurensville, Providence and Head Spring, Laurens County, S. C. He demitted this charge in 1851, and removed to Pontotoc County, Miss., and organized Bethany congregation, and in 1853 was installed by the Memphis Presbytery of the "Synod of the South," over Bethany and Hopewell Churches, Miss. Here Rev. James L. Young spent the remainder of his useful life, until terminated by a severe attack of pneumonia on the 31st of January, 1867. His remains lie in the cemetery at Bethany Church, Miss.

After the death of Rev. J. S. Pressly, Martha Jane made her home in the family of Rev. J. N. Young, LL. D., her brother-in-law, taking care of his eight motherless children. In this home her second marriage took place to Rev. J. L. Young, after whose death, she returned to Rev. J. N. Young's and remained until his death. She now makes her home with his youngest daughter, Harriet, who married James E. Todd, of Due West, S. C.

Mary Letitia, third child of Rev. Charles and Nancy Strong, was born in Newberry County, S. C., April 12, 1821. She was married on the 12th of December, 1839, by Rev. Isaac Grier, D. D., at the residence of her mother in Steele Creek, N. C., to Rev. James Clark Chalmers, of the Associate Reformed Church, son of Captain James Chalmers of Newberry County, S. C. James Clark Chalmers, was born April 11, 1811. His academical course was under the Rev. Samuel P. Pressly, his pastor, at the Newberry Academy. He entered Franklin College, Athens, Georgia, in 1834, and graduated in August, 1836, under the Presidency of Rev. A. Church, D. D. He was a graduate of the first-class of students in the Theological Seminary of the Associate Reformed Church, located at Due West, S. C., under the Presidency of Rev. E. E. Pressly, D. D. On October 5, 1838, he was licensed by the Second Presbytery of the Associate Reformed Synod of the South, at Providence Church, Laurens County, S. C. In the same year he accepted a call from the united congregations of Generostee, Shiloh and Midway in Anderson County, S. C., was ordained at a meeting of the Presbytery at Bethel Church, Georgia, in April, 1840, and in May of the same year was installed pastor of these churches. Here he labored for nineteen years, with the exception of two or three interruptions by order of Synod. In the fall of 1844, he was directed by Synod to spend four months in South Georgia and Middle Florida, and while there he re-organized the church of Pleasant Grove, in Decatur County, Georgia. For several months during the years 1854 and 1855, he was engaged as agent for the endowment of Erskine College. Again, from October, 1856, till October 1857, he labored in a mission church in the City of Nashville, Tenn. In 1858 he accepted a call from Steele Creek, Mecklinburg County, N. C., and Blackstock, York County, S. C., and on the last Friday of October of the same year was installed pastor of this charge. In this field he faithfully labored, though often in extreme physical suffering, till 1882, when he was forced from continued ill-health to resign. He died at the residence of his son, Rev. John T. Chalmers, in Winnsboro, S. C., on Thursday morning, July 7, 1887, in the seventy-seventh year of his age and forty-ninth of his ministry. His remains repose in the cemetery of the Associate Reformed Church in Winnsboro, S. C.

Rev. J. C. and M. L. Chalmers had nine children, Charles Strong, born January 6, 1842; Nancy Priscilla, January 10, 1844; a son, September 15, 1845; a son, July 14, 1847; Mary Jane, September 17, 1848; Caroline, April 5, 1851; a daughter, August 12, 1853; a son, April 29, 1858, and John Thomas, June 6, 1860. All died in infancy, except the youngest, and their mortal remains sleep together in Generostee burial ground, the first grave ever opened in that cemetery being a bed for the first born.

Of this sore bereavement Rev. Dr. Lathan, in a memorial sketch of Rev. J. C. Chalmers, says: "No pen can describe how sore the hearts of these parents were made. Sore for life, but with Christian meekness they said, "the Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away, blessed be the name of the Lord." These sore bereavements were overruled for good to Mr. Chalmers. They prepared him to enter the chamber of distress and comfort those whose hearts were bleeding as those ministers who have not passed through like afflictions can not do."

In 1849 these parents took charge of Lewis M. McAlister, an infant son of L. W. and Matilda Pressly McAlister, whose mother had recently died. They raised him as their own son, and he owns and occupies the Chalmers home place in Steele Creek, and with him M. L. Chalmers makes her home at present, since her son's removal to Philadelphia. He is an elder and Superintendent of the Sabbath-school at Central Steele Creek, and chairman of the County Board of Education, Mecklinburg County, N. C. He was born in Lowndesville, Abbeville County, S. C. December 13, 1848. On November 21, 1870 he married M. Addie Whisonant of York County, S. C. They have four children. Calvin Wardlaw, born in North Carolina, August 31, 1871; Mary Isabella, in South Carolina, January 17, 1875; Gertrude, in North Carolina, November, 7, 1876, and L. Melville, December 12, 1883. His father, L. W. McAlister was an honored elder in Generostee Church, South Carolina.

John Thomas, youngest and only surviving child of Jas. C. and Mary L. Chalmers, was born in Mecklinburg County, N. C., June 6, 1860. At the age of thirteen he made a public profession of religion, entered Erskine College at fifteen and graduated in 1878, sharing the honors of the class. His theological studies were pursued first under the direction of his father, then at Erskine Seminary, South Carolina, and Union Theological Seminary, New York City.

Later he took a special course in Hebrew under Professor W. R. Harper, President of Chicago University. He was licensed April 6, 1880, at Steele Creek, N. Before leaving Union Seminary, he received calls from New York City, North and South Carolina. Accepting the one from South Carolina, he was ordained and installed pastor at Winnsboro, S. C., April 28, 1881, his venerable father presiding in the exercises of the occasion. The happy relation formed between pastor and people continued for eleven years, and was only terminated when the pastor, under a strong sense of duty, accepted a call to the First United Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia. During his Winnsboro pastorate the membership doubled itself. During five years he was associated with Rev. W. M. Grier in the conduct of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church.

Brice, and a descendant of the same branch of the Harris family, a woman whose sweetness of disposition and amiability of manner rendered her deservedly popular and successful as a pastor's wife, and who contributed in no small measure to her husband's success. She was born October 18, 1863, and died on Sabbath morning, January 15, 1893. These parents have six children, Eva, born November 8, 1883; Mary Agnes, February 4, 1885; Palmer, November 26, 1886; Charles Brice, August 14, 1888, and died March 7, 1889; John Thomas, July 20, 1890, and died January 11, 1893, just three days before his mother's death; and James Cuyler, born in Philadelphia, Pa., February 2, 1892.

In October, 1891, Jno. T. Chalmers became pastor of the Fourth United Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia, where he continues to labor. This congregation is the largest of the twelve U. P. Churches of the city, and one of the six largest in the body. In May 1892, he started a mission school with eleven scholars. In three years he has seen this enterprise develop into a church with fifty members, a pastor of its own, and a Sabbath-school of two hundred and seventy-five. It is known as the Wharton Square United Presbyterian Church.

CHAPTER XI.

John N. Young, then Professor in Erskine College, by Rev. James Clark Chalmers, at his home in Anderson County, S. C., on Tuesday morning, October 21, 1845.

Rev. John N. Young, a son of Francis Young, of Abbeville County, S. C., was born February 17, 1813. He entered Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, in 1833, and graduated under the presidency of Dr. Bishop, August 10, 1837. He was taken under the care of the Second Presbytery of the Synod of the South the same year, and while prosecuting his theological studies at Due West, he was also employed in teaching mathematics in the High School at the same place, which in 1839 assumed the features of a regularly chartered and equipped college. In this college he was elected Professor of Mathematics, which position he held till 1881, when his resignation was accepted at a meeting of the Synod in Bethel Church, Alabama. He was licensed, and probably ordained at the same time, at a meeting of the Second Presbytery at Bethel, Lincoln County, Tenn., October 8, 1840. His long and useful life was spent in Due West, S. C., having been professor forty-two years in Erskine College. He was also treasurer of the college for nearly the same period of time.

In June, 1891, the Board of Trustees of Erskine College conferred the degree of LL. D., on Professor Young. In addition to his scholarly attainments, he was the personification of meekness, patience and submission under all the trials that came to him in the positions that he filled, and was universally admired for his gentle, lovable disposition. About two weeks before his death he sustained a serious injury from a fall that so shocked his system that death resulted October 31, 1891, in the seventy-ninth year of his age. His remains lie in the cemetery at Due West, S. C.

Rev. John N. and E. Euphemia Young were the parents of ten children, viz., Elizabeth Jane, Charles Strong, M. Henry Martin, John Mason, James Little, Nancy Caroline, Mary Evelyn, Eleanor Euphemia, Martha Anna and Harriet.

C., for more than a year. Accepting a call from King's Creek, Newberry County, and Thompson Street Church, Newberry Village, S. C., he was ordained and installed over these churches by the Second Presbytery August 12, 1871. He labored as pastor of these churches until September, 1883, when he demitted King's Creek. Since that date he has devoted all of his time to Thompson Street Church. His home is in the town of Newberry, S. C.

Five children were born to Rev. E. P. and Elizabeth J. McClintock, only two of whom lived beyond infancy, Euphemia and Mary Law. Nancy Caroline died August 31, 1847, aged twenty-three years and five months.

Nancy Eugenia, the eldest child of Augustine and Nancy C. Patterson, married James B. Dawson of Burke County, Ga. She too had a short married life. Her only child preceded her to the grave. A severe cold brought on a serious bronchial and lung trouble, which closed her precious life, after weeks of great prostration, on April 2, 1870, aged twenty-four years and five months, thus closing forever the earthly record of this branch of the Nancy Harris Strong family. The dust of this family sleeps in Bethel cemetery, Ga.

Augustine, L. Patterson was married the second time to Eleanor Edgeworth, of Americus, Ga., by whom he had three daughters and one son. Only two of the children survive.

This closes the record of the descendants of Nancy

Martha Emily, fourth child of Martha E. and

Wm. Brice, was born April 28, 1856, married J. F. Fitzpatrick March, 1880, and died May 31, 1883, leaving two little girls, Mary Buford, born December 25, 1880, and Emma Estelle, born February 22, 1883.

Hessie, fifth child of Martha E. and Wm. Brice, was born July 20, 1858, and married E. L. Moore, of Marion Junction, Ala., February 8, 1882. The following are their children: Ray, born December 8, 1882; Marvin, August 29, 1884; Eugene Brice, May 7, 1886; Inez, November 4, 1888; Adolphus, February 19, 1891, and Paul, December 6, 1894.

Catharine H., fourth child of Martha H. and Christopher Strong, was born in Chester County, S. C., and married Samuel Blair, of York County, S. C., January 11, 1848, at her mother's residence in Chester County, S. C. Five children, the fruit of this marriage, are Mary Agnes, John Christopher; Lowry M., who died December 17, 1882, aged twenty-seven years; Martha Catharine and Ida E. Blair, who died December 2, 1876, aged twenty years.

John Christopher, eldest child of Catharine Harris and Samuel Blair, was married to Margaret P. White, December 10, 1872. She is a native of York County, S. C., but her father having removed to Arkansas, she was married in that state. Their children are seven

Mary Agnes, second child of Catharine H. and Samuel Blair, was born in York County, S. C., February 7, 1851. She was married at her father's residence, Blairsville, York County, S. C., by the late Rev. R. A. Ross, D.D., December 17, 1868, to Robert Alexander Patrick, of the same county, son of John R. Patrick, elder in Sharon Associate Reformed Church in York County, but now elder at White Oak, S. C. This young couple removed to White Oak, Fairfield County, S. C., and Robert A. Patrick is a ruling elder in that church. They have eleven children: John Christopher, born September 9, 1870; William Alexander, born September 7, 1872, and died September 18, 1883, aged eleven years; Ida Jeannette, September 15, 1874, and who graduated from the Due West Female College in 1892; Robert Lowry, born January 9, 1877; Agnes Catharine, April 10, 1879; Samuel Mason, March 3, 1881; James Harris, August 24, 1882; Thomas Alexander, November 6, 1883; Sarah Irene, December 7, 1885; Elsie Mabel, born October 2, 1887, and died November 15, 1889, and Paul, March 6, 1890.

Mary Agnes Patrick, mother of these children, died at her home in White Oak, Fairfield County, S. C., after several months of suffering, October 16, 1892. She was laid by the side of her children in the cemetery at White Oak, S. C., who preceded her to the grave.

Martha Catharine fourth child of Catharine H.

and Samuel Blair, born in York County, S. C., was married to W. O. Guy, of Lowrysville, Chester County, S. C., at the residence of her parents, April 8, 1874, by Rev. R. A. Ross, D. D. These parents have nine children, viz.: Florence C., Ida H., Susan A., Lowry J., Maud and Daisy, twins; Essie L., Dora and Clarence O. Their home is in Lowrysville, Chester County, S. C.

Mary Letitia, fifth child of Martha H., and Christopher Strong, was born in Chester County, S. C., 1833. She was married to Samuel J. Wylie of Chester, S. C., January 27, 1850, and died June 2, 1850, aged seventeen years and two months. Her remains lie in the cemetery at Hopewell Church. Samuel J. Wylie's second marriage was to Mary Johnson of Chester County, S. C. He died some years since. His wife survives with seven children. They occupy the well known "Christopher Strong" place—a large brick house, that stands as a monument of former days.

Agnes Caroline, sixth child of Martha Harris and Christopher Strong, was born in Chester County, S. C., November 5, 1837. She was married at her mother's residence August 10, 1853, by Rev. Robert W. Brice to John Brice of Fairfield County, S. C. John Brice died October 21, 1863, aged 62 years. His remains lie in the cemetery at New Hope Church, Fairfield County, S. C. There were only two children by this marriage, Christopher Strong and Johnnie Caroline.

Christopher Strong was born in Fairfield County, S. C., July 16, 1860. He was married to Martha Bell,

A

September 10, 1884, by Rev. James Boyce, D. D. Martha is a descendant of Hugh Harris, oldest child of John and Eleanor Reynolds Harris, and daughter of Charles E. and Isabella Witherspoon Bell, of Mecklinburgh County, N. C. They have five children, Mark, born July 13, 1886; Agnes Caroline, August 5, 1887; Charles Bell, May 21, 1889; Isabella W., born July 17, 1891, and died October, 1891, and Mary Chalmers, March 10, 1894. Christopher Strong Brice is a ruling elder in New Hope Associate Reformed Church.

Johnnie Caroline, youngest child of Agnes C. and John Brice was born in Fairfield County, S. C., October 18, 1863, only three days before her father's death. She married Rev. John T. Chalmers, and her children are given under his name.

Agnes Caroline Brice, was married the second time to Thomas Patrick Mitchell, of York County, S. C., on February 8, 1866. The marriage took place at her residence in Fairfield County, S. C., the ceremony being performed by Rev. James Boyce, D. D. These parents, Agnes Caroline and Thomas P. Mitchell, have three children, William Foster, Eunice M., and Marion Rebecca, who was born August 28, 1870.

William Foster, eldest child of Agnes C. and Thomas P. Mitchell, was born June 3, 1867. He was partly educated at Erskine College, Due West, S. C., but finished his education in the South Carolina College in 1887. He made choice of the medical profession, and after a full course he graduated from the Maryland

University in 1889. He is now located at Avon, New Hope neighborhood, in the section where he was born and reared, and is meeting with success in his profession.

Eunice M., second child of Agnes C. and Thomas P. Mitchell, was born in Fairfield County, S. C., November 18, 1868. She graduated from the Due West Female College, June 1885, and was married at her father's residence in Fairfield County, S. C., May 8, 1889, to R. George Brice of the same county, son of Calvin Brice, Rev.'s J. T. Chalmers and R. G. Miller officiating. R. G. Brice was born, November 20, 1867, graduated from Erskine College, Due West, in June, 1888, and is a ruling elder in New Hope Associate Reformed Church. Eunice and George Brice have two children, George Wallace, born October 2, 1891 and Olive, born December 16, 1893. The home of this family is at Woodwards, Fairfield County, S. C.

This brings to a close the record of the descendants of Captain John Harris, third son of John and Eleanor Reynolds Harris. We find among the number six who have chosen medicine, and four the law and twelve the ministry as their life work. Of the ministers, C. S. Young, Jas. L. Young and Jno. T. Chalmers are lineal descendants, while Charles Strong, J. C. Chalmers, J. N. Young, J. S. Pressly, J. L. Young, W. B. Pressly, E. P. McClintock, H. M. Henry, and J. E. Johnson are connected by marriage.

If one thing more than another has distinguished the members of this branch of the Harris family, it is loyalty to the doctrines and principles of the church of the fathers, as a large majority of the descendants, and the ministers without exception, are members of the Associate Reformed Church.

CHAPTER XIII.

JAMES HARRIS, FOURTH AND YOUNGEST SON OF JOHN AND ELEANOR REYNOLDS HARRIS. CONCLUSION.

James Harris, fourth and youngest child of John and Eleanor Reynolds Harris, was born September 1, 1767. He was probably born in Pennsylvania, as his parents left their first settlement in Lancaster County, Pa., to come South in 1767 or 1768.

James remained in the home with his parents, taking care of them in their declining years. Their home was a half mile west of Blackstock Church. A small two-story house occupied a place near the spring. Later, James erected a more commodious dwelling near to the first one, but in convenient distance of the spring, which, by the way, was a model one, being neatly walled with rock, with rock steps leading down to the water, covered with a substantial roof, extending to the indispensable "Spring House" of that day.

Among the early settlers, the house site was largely determined by the location of the spring. A good spring was considered a great blessing, even as far back in history as the settlement of Canaan, for Caleb's daughter, the wife of Othniel, was moved to ask a blessing of her father, "thou hast given me a Southland, give me also springs of water;" "and he gave her the upper springs and the nether springs."

The site of the old home, where the venerable and historic pair spent their last days, is scarcely discernable. The property passed into the hands of Hugh Clark Harris, grandson of John Harris, and all the buildings erected by James were removed years ago to a more elevated location, and are now occupied by Hugh Clark's daughters—Anna Miller and Mason Alexander. As has been stated elsewhere, James was the author of a small work on the subject of Psalmody, published in 1824, called "The Plowman's Letter." Although written by a farmer, as the title indicates, it must have possessed some merit, as persons in the state of Illinois asked and obtained the privilege of issuing another edition, which was done in Oquawka, Ill., in 1854.

At the organization of Blackstock, or Lower Steele Creek Church, James was elected one of the ruling elders, which office he held till his death, which occurred on December 12, 1833, at the age of sixty-six years. He also held the office of civil magistrate for a number of years before his death. James was twice married, first to Nancy Hunter in 1782, sister of his brother John's wife. Nancy died February 28, 1812. The children by this marriage were Eleazer, John Hunter, Mary Selina and Nancy.

Eleazer entered the ministry of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Synod of the South. We are not informed when and where his college course was taken. He took a full course in the Theological Seminary of the Associate Reformed Church North, in the City of New York, under Rev. John M. Mason, D.D., graduating in 1815. For several years after he entered the ministry, he conducted that popular centre of education, Ebenezer Academy, York District, S. C. He was never a settled pastor, but supplied the vacant churches in the bounds of Synod for a considerable period. Eleazer was thrice married, first in the year 1825, to Jane Kirkpatrick, of Sardis congregation, Mecklinburg County, N. C. She died in the year 1829, during the period he had charge of Ebenezer Academy. She left one child that survived her a few months. Eleazer's second marriage was to Miss Dunn of Alabama. She died in a short time after her marriage, leaving no children.

His third marriage was to Martha Hutchison of Obion County, Tenn. The fruit of this union was seven children. One of his children died at his step-mother's in Steele Creek. The little child had taken sick on the way from Tennessee and was in an exhausted condition when they arrived at the old home, and its death occurred in a few days. In the cemetery of old Blackstock Church a little marble slab bears this inscription, "Eleanor Eve, daughter of Rev. E. Harris, born in Tennessee, December 31, 1837, died in South Carolina November 19, 1838." The remaining six have all passed away. Their names are John Mason, Nancy Naomi, Boston Benoni, Hannah Moore Elizabeth, Martha and "Pet," whose other name could not be ascertained, though his brother-in-law writes, "I never knew his other name, so I called him "Bob," or

"Robert," hence he will be known in this Record as Robert.

Nancy Naomi married, Thornton Guinn. Three children were the fruit of this marriage, William, Alonzo, and Julia. Alonzo is probably the only child of this marriage that survives. He is a resident of Obion County, Tenn. After the death of Thornton Guinn, Nancy married Wm. Frazier. They had one son, name not known. Nancy married a third time but the name of her husband is not given. They had one son, name not known.

Hannah Moore Elizabeth was married to James Bedford of Union City, Tenn., in 1861. She died August, 1879, in the thirty-sixth year of her age. Seven children survive, John Washington, born January 18, 1862; Florence Ann, March, 22, 1863; James, November 23, 1865; Mary, December 3, 1867; Macie, February 11, 1869; A. L., January 2, 1872; and Horace M., September 23, 1876.

Mary Bedford, fourth child of Hannah Moore and James Bedford, married J. T. Johnson of Union City, Tenn.

Robert, the youngest child of Rev. Eleazer and Martha Harris, remained with his mother after his father's death and sustained her until her decease, which took place in 1871. Robert married Miss Fields, removed to Arkansas, his wife died there and he returned to Tennessee with his only child, a daughter. He soon died. His daughter finds a home with her grand parents (Fields) in the state of Missouri.

The latter part of Rev. Eleazer Harris' life was spent in Obion County, Tenn. It is said that he was among the first to preach the Gospel in Troy, Tenn., and organized the Associate Reformed Church there. The exact date of his death has not been ascertained. His remains with those of his wife rest in the Associate Reformed cemetery in Troy, but no marble designates their resting place.

We feel that this record of one the early ministers of the Associate Reformed Church is very incomplete, yet these few facts have been secured after repeated efforts, and we are indebted to the untiring kindness of a disinterested individual for a considerable portion of them.

The writer's personal recollection of Rev. Eleazer Harris is that he was of a melancholy temperament, reserved and unsocial, though sometimes he would indulge in a little wit. On one occasion, when seated at a dinner table surrounded with social relatives, he was asked to carve a tongue. He dished out a delicate slice to each one who, in his estimation, needed a "little more tongue," and to those who needed "no more tongue" he declined serving any. Of course all were expected to enjoy the joke, if it was at the expense of some present. On another occasion we heard him propound a "riddle" to the young people for their amusement. The riddle was on the event of his second marriage to Miss Dunn, and was as follows:

"Before it begun, it was Dunn,
When half done, it was Dunn,
And when done, it was not Dunn."

John Hunter, second child of James and Nancy Harris, was born in York District, S. C., 1793. He served six months in the war of 1812, married Margaret Hunter August, 1817, daughter of Humphrey Hunter, of Mecklinburg County, N. C., and died December 13, 1832, aged thirty-nine years. Margaret was born in 1799, and died June 1883, aged eighty-four years. Their remains lie in the Blackstock Cemetery. The fruit of this marriage was six children: Nancy Selina, born October 19, 1819, and who passed through the furnace of affliction. In her early school days she was severely attacked with articular rheumatism, which continued with such severity that she was deprived of the use of her limbs, and for twenty years or more before her death was not able to walk. The immediate cause, however, of her death, was a cancerous affection of the throat. She died July, 1861, after a long period of patient suffering, aged forty-one years. The other children are James Hunter, born in York County, S. C., November 5, 1821; Humphrey Amzi, March 4, 1823, and died March 1, 1842; Eleazer Strong, June, 1825, and died February 7, 1844; John Calvin, April, 1827, and Margaret Catharine, August, 1833.

James Hunter, second child of John H. and Margaret Harris, married Louisa Smith, August 30, 1849. Louisa died April, 1867, aged thirty-five years. Her remains lie in Blackstock Cemetery. These parents had six children: Helen Augusta, Jennie Hill, Nannie Rosalia, who died November, 1865; James Watt, who died January, 1853; Margaret Catharine, who died August 30, 1857, and James H., who died April, 1867. Helen Augusta, eldest child of James Hunter and Louisa Harris, was married in York County, S. C., at the home of her father December 12, 1870, to John Epps, of York County, S. C. The children of these parents are the following: Benjamin Drayton, Lou Rosamond, Maggie Grier, Arthur Harris and Pattie Hill.

Jennie Hill, second child of James H. and Louisa Harris, married Joseph Davis December 25, 1883.

James Hunter Harris' second marriage was to Mrs. Lucy (Smith) Grier, widow of John Harris Grier, September 5, 1867. James Calvin and Annie Leigh are the children of this marriage. James Calvin took a course of two years at Stetson University, DeLand, Florida. James H. Harris and all of his children reside in Umatilla, Fla.

John Calvin, fifth child of Johh H. and Margaret Harris, was born April, 1827, and married Martha Smith in 1852. John Calvin was in the Confederate service during the late war, and died in "The Soldier's Home," Raleigh, N. C., September 21, 1894, aged sixty-four. Martha died May 22, 1894. Her remains lie in the Blackstock Cemetery. These parents had six children—Florence Amelia, Joseph Lemuel, Lucy Smith, Maggie Hunter, Willie Bouregard, Nannie Price, Martha John and James Henry. The last two survive. Martha John married Mr. Nance, of North Carolina. They have four children, three sons and a daughter, Martha Elizabeth. James Henry married Miss Rice and settled in Charlotte, N. C.

Margaret Catharine, sixth and youngest child of John H. Harris, was born August, 1833, and married J. Harvey McConnell. Two children were born to these parents, Junius and Charles H., who died August 22, 1856, aged four months. Margaret Catherine died August 10, 1856, aged twenty-two years and eleven months. She and her little son lie in Blackstock Cemetery. J. Harvey McConnell married the second time.

Mary Selina, third child of James and Nancy Harris, married Samuel W. Lindsay, of North Carolina, and died August 25, 1819, in the twenty-third year of her age. Samuel W. Lindsay's second marriage was to Violet McLean, March 16, 1820.

Nancy, fourth child of James and Nancy Harris, died May 11, 1819, age nineteen years. Nancy preceded her sister to the grave three months, and they sleep together in the cemetery at Big Steele Creek.

James Harris' second marriage was to Jane Sloan Hunter, October 28, 1813, daughter of Henry Hunter, Mecklinburg County, N. C. She was born January 11, 1779, and was not related to the first wife. Her stepson, John Hunter Harris, married a niece of hers. Jane Sloan Harris died May 8, 1839, aged sixty years. The children of this marriage are Henry, Robert Harvey and Martha Jane.

Henry, the eldest child of James and Jane S. Harris, was born in York County, S. C., August 25, 1814. He was twice married, first to Jane R. Baldridge, of Bibs County, Tenn., August 28, 1834, daughter of Alexander Baldridge. She was born January 28, 1814, and died April 5, 1844, aged thirty years.

Henry Harris settled in Maury County, Tenn. He removed to that state in March, 1840, and was early elected a ruling elder in the Hopewell Associate Reformed Church of Maury County, Tenn. In that capacity he served the church until his death, which occurred July 9, 1887. His remains lie in the cemetery of Hopewell Church, with wife and children that preceded him to the grave.

Henry Harris was the last one of the grandchildren of John and Eleanor Reynolds Harris that "crossed the river."

In a letter to the writer several years before his death, Henry Harris said: "I have in my possession a large trunk that grandfather brought from Ireland; also two large books printed in 1661, written by Joseph Caryl on the Book of Job. They are quite a curiosity to the present generation, with the long droll way of spelling words, so different from the present time. They have a piece of parchment in them with printing on it, in as good a state of preservation as it ever was."

These are the only articles or relics, so far as we know, that have been handed down to the present generation.

The children of Henry Harris by the first marriage are Emily Jane, born October 22, 1835; Robert Sylvanus, January 9, 1838, and died September 12, 1838, age nine months; Mary Louisa, born September 1, 1840, and died May 9, 1866, in the twenty-sixth year of her age, and Pamilla Almedia, born December 2, 1843.

Emily Jane, the eldest child of Henry Harris by first marriage, married Nathaniel Peter Wilburn, December 10, 1856. The children of Emily Jane and N. P. Wilburn are Sallie Mason, born September 25, 1857; Carrie Rebecca, born February 10, 1859, and died October 18, 1881, in the twenty-second year of her age; James Henry, August 15, 1860; Nathaniel Wyche, February 27, 1862; Joel Lee, January 12, 1864; Emma Almedia, August 5, 1870; and Mawry Wilburn, born October 7, 1873.

Sallie Mason, eldest child of Emily Jane and N. P. Wilburn, married Joseph Amos Perry, February 24, 1881. Their children are, Clarence Huntly, born November 26, 1881, and Mary Emma, November 10, 1887.

James Henry, third child of Emily Jane and N. P. Wilburn, married Alice Dickerson Philips, June 28, 1883. The fruit of this marriage is one child, James Henry born May 6, 1885. James Henry Wilburn, the father, died August 2, 1885.

Henry Harris' second marriage was to Jane C. Henderson, of Maury County, Tenn., November 27, 1845, who was born January 16, 1815. Jane C. Harris yet survives at the ripe age of eighty years.

The following are the children of this marriage: Euphemia Elizabeth, Martha Maria, James Harvey, born January 3, 1847, and died July 21, 1854, and Sarah Orlena, born February 16, 1857.

Euphemia Elizabeth, eldest child of Henry and Jane C. Harris, was born August 31, 1849. She was married at the home of her parents in Maury County, Tenn., December 15, 1870, to Ransom Green Fleming. The children of these parents are, Edgar Steel, born September 24, 1871, died April 19, 1881; Alfred Harris, February 16, 1873; Katie Brown, November 2, 1874; James Henry, December 24, 1876; Sallie Elma, December 17, 1878; Carrie, March 25, 1882; Houston Green, March 6, 1885; Janie Elizabeth, May 9, 1887, and Willie Albert, March 5, 1889.

Martha Maria, second child of Henry and Jane C. Harris, was born September 11, 1853, and was married at the home of her parents in Maury County, Tenn., to Elijah Coleman Fleming, February 14, 1884. The following are their children: Sallie Ruchelle, born March 21, 1885; Jennie Harris, May 27, 1887; Edward Franklin, November 30, 1889, and Sydney Ramsey, February 22, 1892, and died September 30, 1894.

Robert Harvey, second child of James Harris by second marriage, was born in York County, S. C., March 9, 1816. He, with his mother and an only sister, occupied the home of the venerated grandparents, John and Eleanor Harris, after the death of his father. He was an exemplary youth and bade fair to fill his father's place in the church, but he was cut down in early manhood, and in a few days this happy home was dismantled. He preceded his mother to the grave only two days. Their separation was short. He died May 6, 1839, in the twenty-third year of his age. His mother died May 8, 1839. Their bodies lie in the cemetery at Big Steele Creek. Martha Jane, the only inmate left, found a home with her brother, Henry Harris, in Maury County, Tenn.

Martha Jane, third and youngest child of James Harris by the second marriage, was born in York County, S. C., March 17, 1822. She was married at the residence of her brother Henry Harris, in Maury County, Tenn., November 18, 1841, to Rev. Neil M. Gordon, of the Associate Reformed Church. He was a son of John Gordon, Esq., of Elbert County, Ga., and was born in that county. He graduated from Miami University, Oxford, O., about the year 1838. His theological course was in the Seminary at Due West, and he was licensed and ordained by the Second Presbytery of "The Synod of the South." For some months he supplied Hopewell congregation, in Maury County, Tenn. In 1842, he accepted a call from churches in Jessamine County, Ky., and was installed pastor by the Kentucky Presbytery.

Rev. N. M. and M. J. Gordon had one daughter, Sarah Jane, who died in 1844, aged two years. Martha Jane died November 8, 1845, in the twenty-fourth year of her age, and with her death closed her family record. She and her babe sleep in Kentucky soil.

Later, Rev. Neill M. Gordon married a daughter of Rev. Smith, D. D., of the General Assembly Presbyterian Church, and after this marriage connected with the General Assembly Presbyterian Church. The surviving children of the second marriage are residents of Kentucky.

This exhausts our fund of information concerning the family of James Harris, fourth and youngest son of John and Eleanor Reynolds Harris. Eleazer Harris and N. M. Gordon are the only ministers connected with this branch, who, with twenty-nine of the Hugh Harris branch, the six of Robert's and twelve of John's, gives a total of forty-nine ministers among the descendants of this pious and honored pair. The promise has been more than fulfilled in their experience:

"How blest the man that fears the Lord,
And makes His law his chief delight;
His seed shall share his great reward,
And on the earth be men of might."

Conclusion.

Having traced as far as we had reliable information the descendants of Hugh, Robert, John and James Harris, the four sons of John and Eleanor Reynolds Harris, we repeat what was said in the Preface, that our sole regret is that the records of all the branches are not full and complete. But if our efforts shall prove instrumental in perpetuating the memory of our honored ancestors, of introducing and bringing about a more intimate acquaintance among those who are comparative strangers, of fostering a closer and warmer friendship among those in whose veins courses the blood of a common parentage, or of creating a greater interest in our family records and history, we shall feel amply repaid.

We have written, not with a view of fostering the "pride of birth," but that the present generation may feel the stimulus of a high and noble ancestry, for it is a great thing to be able to trace our lineage back to parents, robust and strong, and full of faith in God and His word.

"The claim of birth is buffeted with scorn only when it stands upon the merit of the past which it is powerless to reproduce." But if the blood that courses through the veins of children, and of children's children, bears upon its tide the rich legacy of virtue and piety by which it was first distinguished, then even the "pride of ancestry" is shorn of its offence. It is the impress of character which honorable descendants should be most careful to preserve. It is one thing to be proud of our ancestors. It is another thing to have our children proud of us. As we owe a debt of gratitude to the fathers, the influence of whose character streams into our lives, shedding baptisms and benedictions upon the present generation, so likewise are we under equal obligations to posterity, who are to receive at our hands the rich legacy and sacred trusts bequeathed us by the fathers, and who in turn will pronounce upon our fidelity.

And now it is not without a sentiment of sadness that we lay down our pen and part company with our manuscript, committing it to the tender mercies of a large and generous host of relatives and friends. It has been our companion for weeks, and even months, and in its preparation we feel that we have been in the society of the good and great,—a mighty company,

—“whose foremost ranks
Long since had cross'd the river and had pitch'd
Their tents upon the everlasting hills.”

Many of the living we shall never see in the flesh, but may we not all so love and serve our father's God as not only to receive from loved ones left behind the precious commendation, “Life’s race well run,

Life’s work well done,
Life’s crown well won”,

but also to meet each other in glad and glorious reunion,

“Within the mansions of our Father’s house,
A circle never to be sunder’d more,
No broken link, a family in heaven.”
